with Spirit Jo Thobeka Wreford,2008-05-01 In the current model of health dispensation in South Africa there are two major paradigms the spirit inspired tradition of izangoma sinyanga and biomedicine These operate at best in parallel but more often than not are at odds with one another This book based on the author s personal experience as a practitioner of traditional African medicine considers the effects of the absence of spirit in biomedicine on collaborative relationships Given the unprecedented challenge of the HIV AIDS epidemic in the country the author suggests that more cooperation is vital Taking a critical look at the role of anthropology in this endeavor she proposes the development of a language of spirit by means of which the spirit inspired aetiology of izangoma sinyanga may be made comprehensible to academic scientists and applicable to medical interventions The author discusses white izangoma in the context of current debates on healing and hybridity and insists that there exists a powerful role for izangoma in the realm of societal healing Above all the book constitutes a start in what the author hopes will develop into an ongoing intellectual conversation between traditional African healing academe and biomedicine in South Africa Witches, Scientists, Philosophers: Essays and Lectures Robert E.

the Witch traces the author's own journey on the path to witchcraft and how this has helped her find self empowerment and purpose. It celebrates witches past, present and future and reveals the critical role they have played and will continue to play in the world as we know it. Deftly illuminating the past while beckoning us towards the future, Waking the Witch has all the makings of a feminist classic. Wise, relatable and real, Pam Grossman is the witch we need for our times. Ami McKay, author of The Witches of New York. The Academy, 1890. Witches, Druids and King Arthur Ronald Hutton, 2006-09-15. In Stations of the Sun and The Triumph of the Moon Ronald Hutton established himself as a leading authority on the history of Paganism. His wealth of unusual knowledge complemented by a deep and sympathetic understanding of past and present beliefs that are often dismissed as strange or marginal and an ability to write lucidly and wittily gives his work a unique flavour. The essays which make up Witches, Druids and King Arthur cover elegantly and entertainingly a wide range of beliefs, myths and practices. Knowing Fear Jason Colavito, 2007-11-26. Tracing the development of horror entertainment since the late 18th century, this study argues that scientific discovery, technological progress and knowledge in general have played an unparalleled role in influencing the evolution of horror. Throughout its many subgenres, biological horror, cosmic horror and others, and formats, film, literature, comics, horror records, humanity's uneasy relationship with its own ability to reason, understand and learn. The text first outlines a loose framework defining several distinct periods in horror development, then explores each period sequentially by looking at the scientific and cultural background of the period, its expression in horror literature and its expression in horror visual and performing arts. The Physical in Spiritualism George Whitefield Samson, 1881. Global Entertainment Media Tanner Mirrlees, 2013. A critical cultural materialist introduction to the study of global entertainment media. In Global Entertainment Media Tanner Mirrlees undertakes an analysis of the ownership, production, distribution, marketing, exhibition and consumption of global films and television shows with an eye to political economy and cultural studies. Among other topics, Mirrlees examines paradigms of global entertainment media such as cultural imperialism and cultural globalization. The business of entertainment media, the structure of capitalist culture, creative industries, financiers, producers, distributors and exhibitors and trends in the global political economy of entertainment media. The governance of global entertainment media, state and inter-state media and cultural policies and regulations that govern the production, distribution and exhibition of entertainment media and enable or impede its cross-border flow. The new international division of cultural labor, NICL, the cross-border production of entertainment by cultural workers in asymmetrically interdependent media capitals and economic and cultural concerns surrounding runaway productions and co-productions. The economic motivations and textual design features of globally popular entertainment forms such as blockbuster event films, TV formats, globalized lifestyle brands and synergistic media. The cross-cultural reception and effects of TV shows and films. The World Wide Web, digitization and convergence culture. "To Daimonion," George Whitefield Samson, 1852. Defining Management Lars Engwall, Matthias Kipping, Behlül Üsdiken, 2016-06-10.

Defining Management charts the expansion of management as an idea and practice from a time when it was limited to churches and households to its current ubiquity focusing in particular on the role of business schools consultants and business media in this process How did an entire industry develop around business schools consultants and business media who are now widely considered the authorities regarding best management practice This book shows how these actors on their own and in interaction became taken for granted and gained such definitional power over management and managers expanded across the globe from often modest and not always respected origins and impacted and continue to impact businesses and increasingly the broader economic and social context Building on extant and some new research the book is unique in bringing together issues and actors that have been examined elsewhere separately Any student or professional of management interested in the evolution of their field or the rise of business schools consultants and business media will find this book both novel and thought provoking
