John G. Bruhn,2011-07-18 Many of our current social problems have been attributed to the breakdown or loss of community as a place and to the fragmentation of connections due to an extreme value of individualism in the Western world particularly in the United States Not all scholars and researchers agree that individualism and technology are the primary culprits in the loss of community as it existed in the middle decade of the 20th century Nonetheless people exist in groups and connections are vital to their existence and in the daily performance of activities The second edition of the Sociology of Community Connections will identify and help students understand community connectedness in the present and future

Rethinking Aging

Nortin M. Hadler, M.D.,2011-09-12 For those fortunate enough to reside in the developed world death before reaching a ripe old age is a tragedy not a fact of life Although aging and dying are not diseases older Americans are subject to the most egregious marketing in the name of successful aging and long life as if both are commodities In Rethinking Aging

Norton M Hadler examines health care choices offered to aging Americans and argues that too often the choices serve to profit the provider rather than benefit the recipient leading to the medicalization of everyday ailments and blatant overtreatment Rethinking Aging forewarns and arms readers with evidence based insights that facilitate health promoting decision making Over the past decades Hadler has established himself as a leading voice among those who approach the menu of health care choices with informed skepticism Only the rigorous demonstration of efficacy is adequate reassurance of a treatment's value he argues if it cannot be shown that a particular treatment will benefit the patient one should proceed with caution In Rethinking Aging Hadler offers a doctor's perspective on the medical literature as well as his long clinical experience to help readers assess their health care options and make informed medical choices in the last decades of life The challenges of aging and dying he eloquently assures us can be faced with sophistication confidence and grace
