Viral Romance TikTok Media Sensation:

Decolonising Digital Media and Indigenisation of Participatory Epistemologies Fulufhelo Oscar

Makananise, Shumani Eric Madima, 2024-08-13 The book provides valuable insights on decolonising the digital media landscape and the indigenisation of participatory epistemologies to continue the legacies of indigenous languages in the global South. It is one of its kind as it climaxes that the construction phase of self-determining and redefining among the global South societies is an essential step towards decolonising the digital landscape and ensuring that indigenous voices and worldviews are equally infused, represented and privileged in the process of higher-level communication, exchanging epistemic philosophies and knowledge expressions. The book employs an interdisciplinary approach to engage in the use of digital media as a sphere for resistance and knowledge transformation against the persistent colonialism of power through dominant non-indigenous languages and scientific epistemic systems. It further advocates that decolonising digital media spaces through appreciating participatory epistemologies and their languages can help promote the inclusion and empowerment of indigenous communities. It indicates that the decolonial process can also help to redress the historical and ongoing injustices that have disadvantaged many indigenous communities in the global South and contributed to their marginalisation. This book will appeal to undergraduate and graduate students, scholars and academics in communication, media studies, languages, linguistics, cultural studies and indigenous knowledge systems in higher education institutions. It will be a valuable resource for those interested in epistemologies of the South, decoloniality, postcoloniality, indigenisation, participatory knowledge, indigenous language legacies, indigenous artificial intelligence and digital media in the Fourth Industrial Revolution.

Swarms, Viral Writing, and the Local Carl Whithaus, 2025-04-15 Swarms, Viral Writing, and the Local examines the social and rhetorical dynamics around emerging writing technologies. Carl Whithaus argues that these dynamics work across networked publics as patterns of behavior and ways of interacting through and with multimodal texts. This rhetorical analysis of the production and reception of born-digital rhetoric shows the ongoing and evolving impacts of online public discourse that can lead to bad restaurant reviews or the subversion of democracy. It is a networked process that gains significance because of the interplay and tensions between the global and the local. As these texts are created, distributed, received and then recreated and shared again in viral ways, different messages resonate across media ecologies. Whithaus documents how emerging social dynamics shape and are shaped by digital writing, reading and distribution technologies.

Living with Algorithms Ignacio Siles, 2023-04-25 A nuanced account from a user perspective of what it s like to live in a datafied world We live in a media saturated society that increasingly transforms our experiences relations and identities into data others can analyze and monetize Algorithms are key to this process surveilling our most mundane practices and to many their control over our lives seems absolute In Living with Algorithms Ignacio Siles critically challenges this view by surveying user dynamics in the global south across three algorithmic platforms Netflix Spotify and TikTok and finds surprisingly a more balanced relationship Drawing on a wealth of empirical evidence that privileges the user over the corporate Siles examines the personal relationships that have formed between users and algorithms as Latin Americans have integrated these systems into the structures of everyday life enacted them ritually participated in public with and through them and thwarted them Sometimes users follow algorithms Siles finds and sometimes users resist them At times users do both Agency lies in the navigation of the spaces in between By analyzing what we do with algorithms rather than what algorithms do to us Living with Algorithms clarifies the debate over the future of datafication and whether we have a say in its development Concentrating on an understudied region of the global south the book provides a new perspective on the commonalities and differences among users within a global ecology of technologies
