The Castle of Adventure Enid Blyton, Bernard Cribbins, 1990 Arthur's Kingdom of Adventure Muriel Whitaker, 1984 The setting of medieval Arthurian romance as typified by Malory's Morte Darthur plays an important part in the creation of the atmosphere of the stories and in intensifying the drama of the action Professor Whitaker looks at the Arthurian world which Malory inherited from his sources and to which he added his own details and examines its different aspects: castles and forests, kingdoms and empires showing how these diverge from reality to meet the particular requirements of romance; how new political and temporal relationships are set up for the same reason and how it was shaped by the presence of the Otherworld in the Celtic stories from which many episodes were drawn.

The Mountain of Adventure Enid Blyton, 2007 Philip Dinah Lucy Ann and Jack spend their holiday in the Welsh mountains in search of adventure as they try to discover the source of a mysterious rumbling in the mountain.

Rewards and Punishments in the Arthurian Romances and Lyric Poetry of Mediaeval France Peter V. Davies, Angus J. Kennedy, 1987 The essays in this volume, a Festschrift for Professor Kenneth Varty, are centred on the relatively unexplored theme of rewards and punishments in French Arthurian romance and the medieval lyric. The Arthurian studies range over verse: Chrétien de Troyes, Jean Renart, the Roman de Silence and prose: Robert de Boron, the Queste del Saint Graal, Perlesvaus, Lancelot and the Tristan, reflecting a variety of different approaches from an examination of the legal background to the work of Chrétien to an iconographical survey of hitherto undiscussed and unpublished Tristan illustrations to close textual analysis of an episode in Robert de Boron's Joseph and Merlin.

Images of Adventure James A. Rushing, Jr., 2016-11-11 Modern audiences are most likely to encounter Yvain and other Arthurian characters in literature. We read Chrétien de Troyes's Yvain or Hartmann von Aue's Iwein and easily slip into the assumption that during the Middle Ages the title character existed primarily or even exclusively in these canonical texts. James A. Rushing Jr. contends, however, that many times the number of people who heard or read Chrétien or Hartmann must have known the Yvain story through the varieties of second-hand narration, hearsay and conversation that we may call secondary orality. And many other people would have known the story through its visual representations. Exploring the complex relationships between literature and the visual arts in the Middle Ages, Images of Adventure: Yvain in the Visual Arts examines pictorial representations of the story of Yvain, knight of the Round Table, from the thirteenth through the fifteenth centuries. Of the images, Rushing studies only those found in the manuscripts of Chrétien's Yvain, are placed in any obvious relation with a written text and not even they can be construed as straightforward illustrations. Images of Yvain are presented without any textual anchor in the thirteenth-century wall paintings from Schmalkalden in eastern Germany and Rodeneck Castle in the South Tyrol, on the rich embroidery sewn in the fourteenth century for the patrician Malterer family of Freiburg, and in a group of English misericords that show Yvain caught in a moment of high adventure and perhaps comic embarrassment. Pictures, according to Pope Gregory the Great, are the literature of the laity. Navigating between the traditional disciplines of literary study and art history, Images of Adventure offers at once a detailed catalog of Yvain images, a series of close readings of works of art, and a concrete sense of what Gregory's oft-quoted statement may actually have meant in practice.
