The Clicking of Cuthbert and Other Golf Stories Pelham Grenville Wodehouse, 1999 Ten short stories about golf first published in 1922

The Clicking of Cuthbert Sir Pelham Grenville Wodehouse, 1956-01-01 It was in the picturesque little settlement of Wood Hills said the Oldest Member that the incidents occurred which I am about to relate Even if you have never been in Wood Hills that suburban paradise is probably familiar to you by name Situated at a convenient distance from the city it combines in a notable manner the advantages of town life with the pleasant surroundings and healthful air of the country Its inhabitants live in commodious houses standing in their own grounds and enjoy so many luxuries such as gravel soil main drainage electric light telephone baths h and c and company s own water that you might be pardoned for imagining life to be so ideal for them that no possible improvement could be added to their lot Mrs Willoughby Smethurst was under no such delusion What Wood Hills needed to make it perfect she realized was Culture Material comforts are all very well but if the summum bonum is to be achieved the Soul also demands a look in and it was Mrs Smethurst's unfaltering resolve that never while she had her strength should the Soul be handed the loser's end. It was her intention to make Wood Hills a centre of all that was most cultivated and refined and golly how she had succeeded. Under her presidency the Wood Hills Literary and Debating Society had tripled its membership. But there is always a fly in the ointment, a caterpillar in the salad. The local golf club, an institution to which Mrs Smethurst strongly objected, had also tripled its membership and the division of the community into two rival camps, the Golfers and the Cultured, had become more marked than ever. This division, always acute, had attained now to the dimensions of a Schism. The rival sects treated one another with a cold hostility. Unfortunate episodes came to widen the breach. Mrs Smethurst's house adjoined the links, standing to the right of the fourth tee, and as the Literary Society was in the habit of entertaining visiting lecturers, many a golfer had fozzled his drive owing to sudden loud outbursts of applause coinciding with his down swing. And not long before this story opens, a sliced ball whizzing in at the open window had come within an ace of incapacitating Raymond Parsloe Devine, the rising young novelist who rose at that moment a clear foot and a half from any further exercise of his art. Two inches indeed to the right and Raymond must inevitably have handed in his dinner pail. To make matters worse, a ring at the front door bell followed almost immediately and the maid ushered in a young man of pleasing appearance in a sweater and baggy knickerbockers who apologetically but firmly insisted on playing his ball where it lay and what with the shock of the lecturer's narrow escape and the spectacle of the intruder standing on the table and working away with a niblick, the afternoon's session had to be classed as a complete frost. Mr Devine's determination from which no argument could swerve him to deliver the rest of his lecture in the coal cellar gave the meeting a jolt from which it never recovered. I have dwelt upon this incident because it was the means of introducing Cuthbert Banks to Mrs Smethurst's niece Adeline. As Cuthbert, for it was he who had so nearly reduced the muster roll of rising novelists by one, hopped down from the table after his stroke, he was suddenly aware that a beautiful girl was looking at him intently. As a matter of fact, everyone in the room was looking at him intently, none more so than Raymond Parsloe Devine, but none of the others were beautiful girls. Long as the members of Wood Hills Literary Society were on brain, they were short on looks, and to Cuthbert's excited eye, Adeline Smethurst stood out like a jewel in a pile of coke. He had never seen her before for she had only arrived at her aunt's house on the previous day, but he was perfectly certain that life, even when lived in the midst of gravel soil, main drainage, and company's own water, was going to be a pretty poor affair if he did not see her again. Yes, Cuthbert was in love, and it is interesting to record as showing the effect of the tender emotion on a man's game, that twenty minutes after he had met Adeline, he did the short eleventh in one and as near as a toucher got a three on the four hundred yard twelfth.
