Health, Healing, and Shalom Bryant L. Myers, Erin Dufault-Hunter, Isaac B. Voss, 2015-11-17 Frontiers and Challenges for Christian Healthcare Missions Ever since Jesus's proclamation in word and deed as the Great Physician his followers in mission have assumed that salvation and health are intertwined Yet for every age Christians need to examine how they can best announce the gospel message of God's healing in word and deed in their own context In our era we are often simultaneously grateful for modern medicine and frustrated by its inability to care for the whole person in effective affordable ways In this edited volume authors with an interest in health missions from a wide variety of experiences and disciplines examine health and healing through the theological lens of shalom This word often translated peace names a much more complex understanding of human well being as right relationships with one another with God and with creation Reading various aspects of healthcare missions through these glasses not only yields much needed correctives to current practice but also exposes the Spirit's invitation to participate in God's ongoing work of tending caring and healing our broken world

Healing War Trauma Raymond Monsour Scurfield, Katherine Theresa Platoni, 2013-02-11 Healing War Trauma details a broad range of exciting approaches for healing from the trauma of war The techniques described in each chapter are designed to complement and supplement cognitive behavioral treatment protocols and ultimately to help clinicians transcend the limits of those protocols For those veterans who do not respond productively to or who have simply little interest in office based regimented and symptom focused treatments the innovative approaches laid out in Healing War Trauma will inspire and inform both clinicians and veterans as they chart new paths to healing

First Responder Careers Expose Individuals to Higher Risks of Developing Trauma Some careers include a higher likelihood of experiencing traumatic events that can lead to the development of PTSD Serving in the military is a high risk factor for developing PTSD However combat veterans develop PTSD at different rates depending on the severity and length of exposure to traumatic experiences There are also high incidences of reported sexual harassment and sexual abuse in the military As a result the rates of PTSD are relatively high compared to the overall prevalence in the general population Not only can law enforcement officers experience direct threats and stressful conditions but they also regularly witness the devastating effects of assaults robberies kidnappings and violent events However individuals in this profession have lower than expected rates of PTSD surprisingly An estimated 20 percent overall may result from having access to counseling and rigorous pre employment screenings EMTs and paramedics are routinely exposed to life threatening incidents and have more health problems than individuals in other occupations PTSD rates in this group are as high as 20 percent PTSD prevalence in this profession is comparable to law enforcement Firefighters conduct paramedic activities and are the first responders to natural disasters Firefighting is a dangerous profession that exposes workers to stressful conditions and traumatic events ranging from threats to their safety and experiencing the devastating effects of catastrophes As a result the prevalence of PTSD in this group can be as high as 20 percent Volunteer firefighters may have even higher rates because they don't have access to the same level of support as career firefighters Healthcare workers especially those working in emergency rooms and intensive care units are also at higher risk For example nurses working in critical care units are more likely to develop PTSD than nurses in other groups In addition while senior level nurses report fewer PTSD symptoms than junior ones they report higher rates of burnout Finally healthcare workers exposed to patients that have experienced violence such as an assault victim are more likely to develop PTSD than surgeons who treat assault victims Rescue workers medical workers and volunteers who act as first responders during disasters witness the aftermath of horrific events and can even become involved in severe traumatic events The prevalence of PTSD in these individuals has been estimated to be between 15 and 30 percent Journalists who work as war correspondents are at higher risk of being injured killed or kidnapped Their lifetime prevalence of PTSD which can be as high as 30 percent reflects their lack of access to support and PTSD treatment options Transit and train operators are frequently exposed to physical threats and witness suicide incidents such as person under train events Exposure to these traumatic and threatening circumstances can be a daily or weekly occurrence Bus drivers are more prone to PTSD because they have more direct contact with the general public than train drivers locked in secure train cabs In these high risk professions the incidence of trauma declines when policies are in place to debrief victims give victims immediate access to counseling and screen for individuals at high risk of having adverse reactions to traumatic conditions

Encyclopedia of Trauma Charles R. Figley, 2012-06-19 Trauma is defined as a sudden potentially deadly experience often leaving lasting troubling memories Traumatology the study of trauma its effects and methods to modify effects is exploding in terms of published works and expanding in terms of scope Originally a narrow specialty within emergency medicine the field now extends to trauma psychology military psychiatry and behavioral health post traumatic stress and stress disorders trauma social work disaster mental health and most recently the subfield of history and trauma with sociohistorical examination of long term effects and meanings of major traumas experienced by whole communities and nations both natural Pompeii Hurricane Katrina and man made the Holocaust 9 11 One reason for this expansion involves important scientific breakthroughs in detecting the neurobiology of trauma that is connecting biology with human behavior which in turn is applicable to all fields involving human thought and response including but not limited to psychiatry medicine and the health sciences the social and behavioral sciences the humanities and law Researchers within these fields and more can contribute to a universal understanding of immediate and long term consequences both good and bad of trauma both for individuals and for broader communities and institutions Trauma encyclopedias published to date all center around psychological trauma and its emotional effects on the individual as a disabling or mental disorder requiring mental health services This element is vital and has benefited from scientific and professional breakthroughs in theory research and applications Our encyclopedia certainly will cover this central element but our expanded conceptualization will include the other disciplines and will move beyond the individual
