American Cities in Post-Apocalyptic Science Fiction Robert Yeates, 2021-11-15 Visions of the American city in post apocalyptic ruin permeate literary and popular fiction across print visual audio and digital media American Cities in Post Apocalyptic Science Fiction explores the prevalence of these representations in American culture drawing from a wide range of primary and critical works from the early twentieth century to today Beginning with science fiction in literary magazines before taking in radio dramas film video games and expansive transmedia franchises Robert Yeates argues that post apocalyptic representations of the American city are uniquely suited for explorations of contemporary urban issues Examining how the post apocalyptic American city has been repeatedly adapted and repurposed to new and developing media over the last century this book reveals that the content and form of such texts work together to create vivid and immersive fictional spaces in ways that would otherwise not be possible Chapters present media specific analyses of these texts situating them within their historical contexts and the broader history of representations of urban ruins in American fiction Original in its scope and cross media approach American Cities in Post Apocalyptic Science Fiction both illuminates little studied texts and provides provocative new readings of familiar works such as Blade Runner and The Walking Dead placing them within the larger historical context of imaginings of the American city in ruins

Desiring the Bomb Calum Lister Matheson, 2018-11-13 A timely interdisciplinary study that applies psychoanalysis and the rhetorical tradition of the sublime to examine the cultural aftermath of the Atomic Age Every culture throughout history has obsessed over various end of the world scenarios The dawn of the Atomic Age marked a new twist in this tale For the first time our species became aware of its capacity to deliberately destroy itself Since that time the Bomb has served as an organizing metaphor a symbol of human annihilation a stand in for the unspeakable void of extinction and a discursive construct that challenges the limits of communication itself The parallel fascination with and abhorrence of nuclear weapons has metastasized into a host of other end of the world scenarios from global pandemics and climate change to zombie uprisings and asteroid collisions Desiring the Bomb Communication Psychoanalysis and the Atomic Age explores these world ending fantasies through the lens of psychoanalysis to reveal their implications for both contemporary apocalyptic culture and the operations of language itself What accounts for the enduring power of the Bomb as a symbol What does the prospect of annihilation suggest about language and its limits Thoroughly researched and accessibly written this study expands on the theories of Kenneth Burke Jacques Lacan Sigmund Freud and many others from a variety of disciplines to arrive at some answers to these questions Calum L Matheson undertakes a series of case studies including the Trinity test site nuclear war games urban shelter schemes and contemporary survivalism and argues that contending with the anxieties individual social cultural and political born of the Atomic Age depends on rhetorical conceptions of the real an order of experience that cannot be easily negotiated in language Using aspects of media studies rhetorical theory and psychoanalysis the author deftly engages the topics of Atomic Age survival extinction religion and fantasy along with their enduring cultural legacies to develop an account of the Bomb as a signifier and to explore why some Americans have become fascinated with fantasies of nuclear warfare and narratives of postapocalyptic rebirth
