Student Teaching A Journey In Narratives:

Student Teaching K.J. Fasching-Varner, 2014-02-07 The journey of becoming a teacher is a complicated emotional and often intricate endeavor Much has been written about pre service teachers but rarely do we understand the journey through their own voices Join nine pre service teachers as they share their experiences challenges and victories through a series of powerful narratives Committed to making the process more transparent for those embarking on a similar journey the chapter authors share honest personal and heartfelt viewpoints about what it means to become a teacher The nine pre service teachers in this volume all participated in a yearlong student teaching in the renowned Elementary Holmes Master of Arts in Teaching program at Louisiana State University Putting to practice critical perspectives about what it means to teach in the 21st century these authors expose their vulnerabilities with a range of literary approaches including metaphor reflective journaling and storytelling The volume is framed by teacher educator insights about the contexts and complexities of teaching A must read for anyone preparing to student teach or for those already student teaching Student Teaching A Journey in Narratives deals directly with the realities of learning to teach Sometimes poetic sometimes painful these compelling personal narratives of novice teachers provide a poignant view of the struggles fears and celebrations developing teachers traverse on the journey to induction into the profession Teacher educators and teacher candidates alike will find much to explore and discuss in these chapters No stone of learning to teach is left unturned Lisa Delpit Author of Other People's Children Cultural Conflict in the Classroom and Multiplication is for White People Raising Expectations for Other People's Children Narrative Inquiries into Curriculum Making in Teacher Education Julian Kitchen, Darlene Ciuffetelli Parker, Debbie Pushor, 2011-02-15 Explores how individuals identity and personal practical knowledge are being formed shifted or interrupted through moments in teacher education Learning and Teaching Narrative Inquiry Sheila Trahar, 2011 In the final chapter of this volume the authors refer to the pedagogical vantage points offered by narrative inquiry an apt comment that encapsulates the volume's purpose and its spirit As an increasing number of people throughout the world and from a broad range of disciplines are turning to narrative as a research methodology this volume is timely in its focus on the learning and teaching of this approach The contributors to the volume all narrative scholars themselves write about the creative and challenging pedagogical activities that they use in order to enable others to learn about and do narrative research The volume will be of particular interest to those teaching narrative research methodologies at both undergraduate and postgraduate level in the social sciences medical sciences and the humanities The contributions from Hong Kong Israel Europe and North America all reflect critically on the rich complexities of using and teaching narrative in those contexts and attend closely to the diverse constituencies of their learning communities Transforming Educational Pathways for Chicana/o Students Dolores Delgado Bernal, Enrique Aleman Jr., 2017 This book chronicles a 10 year journey to develop and sustain Adelante a university school community partnership designed specifically to address public education's failure to meet the needs of students of color particularly Chicana/o students. The authors examine the persistent barriers, mistakes, challenges, and successes that emerged in their community-based partnership with elementary school students, college students, teachers, parents, and educational leaders. Intertwining critical race theories with Chicana feminist theories, they propose a critical race feminist praxis and provide real-world examples of what this praxis can look like in the context of a racialized, gendered, and colonial landscape. The book offers practical advice and theoretical insight to those interested in disrupting pervasive inequities that shape the mis-education of marginalized students. Book Features: Fills a void about how to engage in activist scholarship by describing concrete strategies and practices employed by the authors. Offers theoretical contributions through the braiding together of critical race and Chicana feminist theories. Proposes a partnership model for working with communities of color that promotes pathways to higher education. Theoretically cutting edge and with practical on-the-ground application. Transforming Educational Pathways is a brilliant example of how university-school-community collaborations can be reshaped into transformative praxis in the education of Chicana/x Latinx students. The balanced combination of community-engaged work and scholar-activist research in this groundbreaking book powerfully moves us further in the spiritual journey of reimagining and transforming the inequities of educational institutions for Chicana/x Latinx students and their families and communities. Luis Urrieta, professor, The University of Texas at Austin. Delgado Bernal and Aleman start and end with the transformative idea that all students should be expected to attend college from their earliest experiences in public education, kindergarten. By challenging the deficit notions surrounding Chicana/o students and their communities, the authors provide the most compelling asset-based and theoretically grounded university-community partnership program I've seen in the K-8 sector. Daniel G. Solorzano, professor, University of California, Los Angeles. Transforming Educational Pathways for Chicana/o Students is a compelling and intimate account of the development of Adelante, an innovative university-school partnership. It is also an inspiring story of the impact of culturally affirming and anticolonial education on Latina/o children and their teachers, university student mentors, and parents. The process of changing deficit-based school culture is a difficult one, as the book shows. Yet, drawing on Gloria Anzaldá's feminist theorizing, Delgado Bernal and Aleman offer a theory of school change where collisions, difficult solidarities, and transformative moments constitute a praxis of hope, imagination, and social justice. Sofia Villenas, professor, Cornell University.

Pedagogy in

(E)Motion Nellie J. Zambrana-Ortiz, 2011-04-29. This personal, creative, critical work from a leading scholar of psychology is rooted in three novel concepts and aims to share critical pedagogy in the spirit of nascent potential found in the context of a colonial Puerto Rico. First comes the idea of pedagogy in e-motion, or the emotional matrix of the teaching and learning process. Secondly, the author explores the notion of street pedagogy as a genuine and powerful professional tool. And thirdly, the book underscores what Zambrana Ortiz calls the interconnection of the art/science within the political and biographical act of teaching. The purpose is to inform education teaching practice with the radical framework that, like the neurosciences, believes emotions to be a vital precursor to the planning of action the process of decision making and the broadening of our cognitive parameters The chapters focus on different and yet complementary dimensions of a college teaching initiative boasting a unique interplay between a transgressive narrative reinvented methodology and authentic samples of students contributions to the project Traditionally emotional and visceral experiences have been downplayed and rejected as fundamental components of knowledge This book makes the case for their reinstatement and proposes that the pleasure and commitment of teaching itself can be seen as resistance given the challenging social and political context the bureaucracy of the Puerto Rican higher education system and the cynicism of the self confessed cognoscenti who think that little political progress can come from within the university system Such resistance has proved for the author a source of inspiration and has contributed to her creation and reconceptualization of approaches to critical and useful pedagogy

Resources in Education ,2001-10 A Contemporary Theory of Mathematics Education Research Tony Brown, 2020-10-05 This book by passes both psychology and sociology to present an original social theory centered on seeing mathematical learning by everyone as an intrinsic dimension of how mathematics develops as a field in support of human activity Here mathematics is defined by how we collectively talk about it Drawing on psychoanalytic theory the student is seen as participating in the renewal of mathematics through their contributions to our collective gaze on mathematics as the field responds to ever new demands As such learning takes a critical stance on the standard initiations into current practices often promoted by formal education In the field of mathematics education researchers have moved from psychology where individual students were seen as following natural paths of development through existing mathematical knowledge to socio cultural models predicated on students being initiated into the human world and understood through the reflective gazes this world has of itself such as those found in comparisons of student learning in different countries This book addresses the domain purpose and functioning of contemporary research in mathematics education and is an original contribution to this theme The book is aimed at a mathematics education research audience It continues a dialogue with existing publications seen widely as a cutting edge and will also be of interest to students and practitioners in the fields of qualitative research social theory and psychology

Teachers' Narrative Inquiry as Professional Development Karen E. Johnson, Paula R. Golombek, 2002-07-08 This book explores teachers understanding of the personal and professional experiences that have informed their language teaching The intent of the hardback edition is to bring into our professional conversations teachers ways of knowing that is teachers understanding of the experiences that have informed their language teaching By making teachers ways of knowing public open to review and accessible to others in this profession this text hopes to validate in ways afforded to other forms of scholarly work teachers own understanding of the activity of language teaching

Narratives in Educational Research Eeva Kaisa Hyry-Beihammer, Outi Ylitapio-Mäntylä, Minna Uitto, 2024-09-24 This edited volume focuses on narratives and diverse narrative approaches in the field of education It discusses the concept of narrative and its boundaries as well as illustrates in detail the many ways of producing and analyzing diverse narrative research materials Its chapters provide rich examples of oral written and visual narratives produced in peer interviews and group discussions as well as via creative writing and photographs Various narrative ways of analyses are applied The book reflects on research ethics the position of the researcher and collaboration between participants and researchers as well as between researchers also cross culturally By exploring and illustrating innovative ways to conduct research on and with narratives in the educational field the book is a great resource for researchers and students in the field of education social sciences and humanities
