literacy coordinators and all those interested in children's literature will find this a captivating read Making Sense Of Children'S Drawings Anning, Angela, Ring, Kathy, 2004-08-01 Making Sense of Children's Drawings is enlivened with the real drawings of seven young children collected over three years. These drawings stimulated dialogues with the children, parents, and practitioners whose voices are reported in the book. The book makes an argument for us to rethink radically the role of drawing in young children's construction of meaning, communication, and sense of identity. It provides insights into the influence of media and consumerism as reflected in popular visual imagery and on gender identity formation in young children. It also offers strong messages about the overemphasis on the three Rs in early childhood education. International Handbook of Research on Children's Literacy, Learning and Culture Kathy Hall, Teresa Cremin, Barbara Comber, Luis C. Online learning became the primal policy taken by all institutions in the world to lower the risk of the virus spread. In that time, topics under digital learning and education 5.0 were the main stakes in academic disseminations. This year, some institutions start to conduct their teaching and learning process classically as before the pandemic; others are still continuing online, and not few are in hybrid. This leaves a question: what learning reform should be made in the post-pandemic era? This conference invites researchers, experts, teachers, and students to discuss the coping solutions of the question. It is important for them to contribute to the understanding of reimagining online education for better futures, innovative learning design, new skills for living and working in new times, global challenge of education, learning and teaching with blended learning, flipped learning, integrating life skills for students in the curriculum, developing educators for the future, distance learning, humanities learning in the digital era, assessment and measurement in education, challenges and transformations in education technology, in teaching and learning, new learning and teaching models.
