and company executives in Norway Britain Indonesia and Malaysia Klapp addresses a little understood determinant of policy the pivotal bargaining power that domestic and international interests wield in different countries Advanced capitalist countries she finds have generally not achieved their goals in the oil sector they have been constrained by powerful well organized domestic interests Less developed countries by contrast have faced little opposition at home but the international banks and the multinationals have severely limited their attempts to expand into the global petroleum market klapp argues that bureaucratic and domestic politics not just economics underlie the varying success of different countries in the marketplace
