I'll Get Back to You Sam George, 2021-04-27 I'll Get Back to You is the first book to teach you how to stop texts and emails from interfering with your relationships and your life. The issue with emails and texts is that they do not have instant feedback like direct contact, where you can understand and clarify in real time. The immediate feedback loop of the past has broken down, leaving us with broken communication loops. It's created the Dyscommunication Crisis. You never know if the message will be misunderstood or returned. The worst is an unreturned message. You've been texting your boyfriend for over twenty-four hours, and he hasn't responded. You've been texting your child all day, and haven't received a response. The result is identical: We conclude something is wrong and justify it using the worst-case scenario. Unanswered messages have a significant psychological toll. Polls support this: 1. 67% of people suffer from agitation or anxiety. 2. 67% resort to worst-case scenarios to explain. 3. 71% of people fall into negative loops of thinking. 4. 46% admit to making a mistake they regret. Even when messages are returned, the exchange is not always complete. The message might be vague, or you may misinterpret it, resulting in similar issues. It's a broken communication loop, and unlike in the past, there's no direct input to clear things up. I'll Get Back to You ensures that they read your message, not just scan it. There are solutions to ensure your messages are fully understood and promptly returned. There are interesting stories about relationships, dating, family, and work, along with self-improvement worksheets. I'll Get Back to You offers practical solutions. Tested tactics so messages are promptly returned. Procedures in writing messages so they are understood. Strategies to follow up on.

Mileros,2025-02-28 With over 5 billion social media users users worldwide digital platforms such as YouTube and Facebook have become an integral part of people s daily lives Many of these platforms offer free services such as entertainment and social interaction but behind these services lies a complex economic non monetary exchange A specific user group referred to in this dissertation as zero price users trades personal resources such as time attention and data instead of money to use the free service At the same time another more active user group plays a significant role content creators Content creators and especially influencers have assumed a central role in supplying platforms with original and engaging content What unites these two types of users is that they both participate in a distributed value creation process based on the monetization of personal assets which positions them as economic actors in an emerging user driven data economy Many of the resources that users provide or exchange with other users can be utilized by platforms as economic assets However these resources are not perceived in the same way as traditional economic transactions This lack of insight can lead to a range of future consequences and costs that may negatively impact users and diminish their well being The aim of this dissertation is therefore to explore social media users as active economic actors in the user driven data economy from a human centric perspective The research is based on a combination of qualitative and quantitative methods Surveys are used to study zero price users and their engagement with free services For content creators in depth interviews are conducted as this group represents a significantly smaller population The study stands out by adopting a human centric perspective In other words it contributes knowledge focused on enhancing user well being rather than prioritizing growth and innovation as companies and organizations typically do The results show that platform strategies such as infinite scrolling and targeted advertising can subtly influence user behavior and lead to various non monetary costs These may manifest as procrastination reduced self control and stress For content creators the pressure from algorithms and sponsors often shifts their focus from intrinsic motivation to external performance goals which can hinder their creativity and stability over time. Additionally, they frequently face financial uncertainty and the need to continuously push their boundaries to produce original content. This growing pressure may lead influencers to take significant risks or expose their private lives and families. The study's observations highlight how the user-driven economy not only affects individuals but also reshapes markets, culture, and behaviors. This dissertation deepens the understanding of the user-driven data economy and its implications for users by linking them to autonomy, core human values, and well-being. It also emphasizes the importance of increased transparency and ethical accountability from companies, as well as the need for users to reflect on their values, digital behaviors, and the consequences of their actions. As role models and cultural influencers, influencers specifically play a key role in shaping future norms, values, and societal trends. While this research provides a foundation for understanding this phenomenon, further studies are needed to identify additional non-monetary costs for users and develop tools and strategies that can enhance their ability to make more informed decisions regarding their current and future challenges.

Med över fem miljarder användare av sociala medier används världen över och har digitala plattformar som YouTube och Facebook blivit en naturlig del av människors vardag. Många plattformar av detta slag erbjuder exempelvis gratis tjänster som underhållning och social interaktion, men bakom dessa tjänster döljer sig ett komplext ekonomiskt ickemonetärt utbyte. Till exempel byter en specifik användargrupp som i denna avhandling benämns som nollpris-användare personliga resurser som tid, uppmärksamhet och data i stället för pengar mot användande av plattformar. Samtidigt spelar också en annan, mer aktiv användargrupp en viktig roll nämligen innehållsskapare. Innehållsskapare och främst så kallade influencers har fått en central roll i att föra plattformarna med originellt och engagerande innehåll. Det som förenar dessa två typer av användare är att de båda deltar i en distribuerad värdeskapande process som baserar sig på monetariseringen av personliga tillgångar, vilket i sin tur positionerar dem som ekonomiska aktörer i en framväxande användardriven dataekonomi. Många av de resurser som användarna tillhandahåller eller utbyter mellan andra användare kan nyttjas som ekonomiska tillgångar av plattformarna, vilket innebär att dessa resurser inte uppfattas på samma sätt som traditionella ekonomiska transaktioner. Denna bristande insyn kan leda till en rad framtida konsekvenser och kostnader som negativt påverkar användarna och deras verktygsanvändning. Syftet med denna avhandling är därför med att belysa och fördjupa sig i den användardrivna dataekonomin samt att mer specifikt undersöka konsekvenserna för de två centrala huvudanvändarna, nollpris-användare och innehållsskapare. Forskningen baserar sig på en kombination av kvalitativa och kvantitativa metoder där enkäter används för att undersöka nollpris-användare och deras användning av gratis tjänster. För innehållsskapare används istället djupintervjuer där dessa respondenter reflekterar till antalet. Studien utmärker sig genom att anta ett människocentriskt perspektiv. Med andra ord så bidrar studien med kunskap som kan leda till ökad välbefinnande för den enskilde snarare än för företagsrelaterade aspekter som kadit tillväxt och innovation. Resultaten visar att plattformsstrategier som obegränsad scrollning och riktad reklam subtilt kan påverka användares beteenden och leda till en rad icke monetära kostnader, exempelvis prokrastinering, nedsatt självkontroll och stress. För innehållsskapare medf r trycket från algoritmer och sponsorer att deras fokus ofta flyttas från deras inre motivation till externa prestationsmål vilket visar sig i mindre kreativitet och stabilitet över tid. Dessutom står de ofta inför en ekonomisk osäkerhet och behovet av att ständigt tjäna på sina gränser för att producera originellt innehåll. Denna kade press kan leda till att influencers tar stora risker eller exponerar sina privatliv och familjer. Studiens observationer belyser hur användardrivna ekonomier inte bara påverkar individer utan även effekten på marknader, kultur och beteende. Denna avhandling fördjupar förståelsen för den användardrivna dataekonomin och dess konsekvenser för användare genom att koppla dem till autonomi, människors känslor och välbefinnande. Den betonar också vikten av hög transparens och etiskt ansvar från plattformsföretagens sida samt vikten av att användare reflekterar över sina värderingar, digitala beteenden och konsekvenserna av sina handlingar. Som förbilder och kulturella påverkare spelar specifikt influencers en nyckelroll i att forma framtida normer, värderingar och samhällstrender. Vår forskning ger en grund för att förstå detta fenomen så att vidare studier för att identifiera fler icke-monetariska kostnader för användare samt nya verktyg och strategier som kan stärka förmågan att fatta mer informerade beslut kring nuvarande och framtida utmaningar.
