Mandelker, 2010 Designing Planned Communities is a clear statement of the design issues that are critical to creating livable and well designed planned communities Professor Mandelker draws on his long experience with planned community and land use regulation to explain the meaning of good design for planned communities He shows how design concepts for planned communities can be translated into effective design guidance by local governments Examples of design standards are provided from comprehensive plans design guidelines design manuals and planned community regulations Throughout Designing Planned Communities the reader is taken through the complex problems of design regulation to an effective design program that can create planned communities in which we want to live Planners and lawyers will be interested in what Mandelker has to say about the design issues facing a growing number of planned communities throughout the country Planning and local government attorneys will find the information about the legality of innovative design plans most interesting and helpful Mandelker provides examples of localities that have experimented with a variety of design approaches and explores case law that will have an impact on these innovations Michael Allan Wolf Professor Richard E Nelson Chair in Local Government Law University of Florida Fredric G Levin College of Law Study of Subdivision Requirements as a Regulatory Barrier, 2007 The Geography of Opportunity Xavier de Souza Briggs, 2006-03-30 A popular version of history trumpets the United States as a diverse nation of immigrants welcome to all The truth however is that local communities have a long history of ambivalence toward new arrivals and minorities Persistent patterns of segregation by race and income still exist in housing and schools along with a growing emphasis on rapid metropolitan development sprawl that encourages upwardly mobile families to abandon older communities and their problems This dual pattern is becoming increasingly important as America grows more diverse than ever and economic inequality increases Two recent trends compel new attention to these issues First the geography of race and class represents a crucial litmus test for the new regionalism the political movement to address the linked fortunes of cities and suburbs Second housing has all but disappeared as a major social policy issue over the past two decades This timely book shows how unequal housing choices and sprawling development create an unequal geography of opportunity It emerges from a project sponsored by the Civil Rights Project at Harvard University in collaboration with the Joint Center for Housing Studies and the Brookings Institution The contributors policy analysts political observers social scientists and urban planners document key patterns their consequences and how we can respond taking a hard look at both successes and failures of the past Place still matters perhaps more than ever High levels of segregation shape education and job opportunity crime and insecurity and long term economic prospects These problems cannot be addressed effectively if society assumes that segregation will take care of itself Contributors include William Apgar Harvard University Judith Bell PolicyLink Angela Glover Blackwell PolicyLink Allegra Calder Harvard Karen Chapple Cal Berkeley Camille Charles Penn Mary Cunningham Urban Institute Casey Dawkins Virginia
