The Cabin That Moose Built Paws Iv:

Four Thousand Paws Lee Morgan, 2024-02-27 An intimate account the first from a trail veterinarian of the canines who brave the challenges of the Iditarod Few sporting events attract as much attention or create as much spectacle as the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race Each March despite subzero temperatures and white out winds hundreds of dogs and dozens of mushers journey to Anchorage Alaska to participate in The Last Great Race on Earth a grueling thousand mile race across the Alaskan wilderness While many veterinarians apply only a small number are approved to examine the elite canine athletes who using solely their muscle and an innate drive to race carry handlers between frozen outposts each year risking injury illness and fatigue along the way In Four Thousand Paws award winning veterinarian Lee Morgan a member of the Iditarod's expert veterinary corps tells the story of these heroic dogs following the teams as they traverse deep spruce forests climb steep mountain slopes and navigate over ice bound rivers toward Nome on the coast of the Bering Sea where the famed Burled Arch awaits From the huskies of Iditarod's past to the intrepid dogs of today Morgan shows how these fierce competitors surmount the dangers of the Arctic aided along the way by attentive mushers and volunteer veterinarians A world away from his Georgetown veterinary clinic Morgan examines dogs at each checkpoint and sees how their body language reflects the thrill of the race and how when pulled from it they often refuse to eat As in any team sport distinct personalities among the sled dogs create complex group dynamics and Morgan captures moments of intense rivalry defeat camaraderie and ultimately triumph In the tradition of Why Elephants Weep Four Thousand Paws is an intimate look inside the animal mind and an exciting new account of a storied race
