Spoken Dialogue Systems Synthesis Lectures On Human Language Technologies:

Spoken Dialogue Systems Kristina Jokinen, Michael McTear, 2022-05-31 Considerable progress has been made in recent years in the development of dialogue systems that support robust and efficient human machine interaction using spoken language. Spoken dialogue technology allows various interactive applications to be built and used for practical purposes and research focuses on issues that aim to increase the system's communicative competence by including aspects of error correction, cooperation, multimodality and adaptation in context. This book gives a comprehensive view of state of the art techniques that are used to build spoken dialogue systems. It provides an overview of the basic issues such as system architectures, various dialogue management methods, system evaluation and also surveys advanced topics concerning extensions of the basic model to more conversational setups. The goal of the book is to provide an introduction to the methods, problems and solutions that are used in dialogue system development and evaluation. It presents dialogue modelling and system development issues relevant in both academic and industrial environments and also discusses requirements and challenges for advanced interaction management and future research. Table of Contents: Preface, Introduction to Spoken Dialogue Systems, Dialogue Management, Error Handling, Case Studies, Advanced Approaches to Dialogue Management, Advanced Issues, Methodologies and Practices of Evaluation, Future Directions, References, Author Biographies.

Conversational AI Michael McTear, 2020-10-30 This book provides a comprehensive introduction to Conversational AI. While the idea of interacting with a computer using voice or text goes back a long way, it is only in recent years that this idea has become a reality with the emergence of digital personal assistants, smart speakers and chatbots. Advances in AI, particularly in deep learning along with the availability of massive computing power and vast amounts of data, have led to a new generation of dialogue systems and conversational interfaces. Current research in Conversational AI focuses mainly on the application of machine learning and statistical data driven approaches to the development of dialogue systems. However, it is important to be aware of previous achievements in dialogue technology and to consider to what extent they might be relevant to current research and development. Three main approaches to the development of dialogue systems are reviewed: rule based systems that are handcrafted using best practice guidelines, statistical data driven systems based on machine learning and neural dialogue systems based on end to end learning. Evaluating the performance and usability of dialogue systems has become an important topic in its own right and a variety of evaluation metrics and frameworks are described. Finally, a number of challenges for future research are considered including multimodality in dialogue systems, visual dialogue, data efficient dialogue, model learning using knowledge graphs, discourse and dialogue phenomena, hybrid approaches to dialogue systems development, dialogue with social robots and in the Internet of Things and social and ethical issues.

The Conversational Interface Michael McTear, Zoraida Callejas, David Griol, 2016-05-19 This book provides a comprehensive introduction to the conversational interface which is becoming the main mode of interaction with virtual personal assistants smart devices various types of wearable and social robots The book consists of four parts Part I presents the background to conversational interfaces examining past and present work on spoken language interaction with computers Part II covers the various technologies that are required to build a conversational interface along with practical chapters and exercises using open source tools Part III looks at interactions with smart devices wearables and robots and discusses the role of emotion and personality in the conversational interface Part IV examines methods for evaluating conversational interfaces and discusses future directions

Constructive Dialogue Modelling Kristiina

Jokinen, 2009-05-27 Dialogue management technology has developed rapidly over the years resulting in real time applications like telephony directories timetable enquiries and in car applications However the current technology is still largely based on models that use rigid command language type interactions and the users need to adapt their human communication strategies to the needs of the technology As an increasing number of interactive ubiquitous applications will appear challenges for interaction technology concern especially natural more human friendly communication Recent research has focused on developing speech based interactive systems that aim to increase the system's communicative competence By including aspects of interaction beyond simple speech recognition and question answer based interaction applications with more conversational interfaces have become possible New dialogue management technology needs to address the challenges in human technology interaction so that smart environments should not only enable user controlled command interfaces but equip applications with a capability that affords easy and friendly interactions with the user Dialogue Modelling Speech Interaction and Rational Agents provides an overview of the current dialogue technology and research trends in spoken dialogue systems presenting a coherent perspective of AI based cooperative interaction management The book complements existing research regarding human computer interfaces speech and language technology and communication studies in general bringing different view points together and integrating them into a single point of reference Constructive Dialogue Modelling Presents a guide to spoken dialogue technology and current research trends Provides an overview of human factors in dialogue systems and delivers a new metaphor for human computer interaction and computer as agent Explains the architecture of dialogue systems using examples from systems such as Interact and DUMAS Offers a comprehensive overview of original research into the new trends in speech dialogue technology in light of innovations such as ubiquitous computing This book will provide essential reading for industrial designers and interface engineers university researchers and teachers computer scientists human communication researchers speech and language technologists cognitive engineers cognitive scientists as well as social and media researchers and psychologists Advanced students and researchers in computer science speech and language technologies psychology and communication research will find this text of interest

Knowledge Engineering Tools and Techniques for AI Planning Mauro Vallati, Diane Kitchin, 2020-03-25 This book presents a comprehensive review for Knowledge Engineering tools and techniques that can be used in Artificial Intelligence Planning and Scheduling KE tools can be used to aid in the acquisition of knowledge and in the construction of domain models which this book will illustrate AI planning engines require a domain model which captures knowledge about how a particular domain works e.g. the objects it contains and the available actions that can be used However encoding a planning domain model is not a straightforward task a domain expert may be needed for their insight into the domain but this information must then be encoded in a suitable representation language The development of such domain models is both time consuming and error prone Due to these challenges researchers have developed a number of automated tools and techniques to aid in the capture and representation of knowledge This book targets researchers and professionals working in knowledge engineering artificial intelligence and software engineering Advanced level students studying AI will also be interested in this book

Talker Quality in Human and Machine Interaction Benjamin Weiss, 2019-07-13 The book discusses subjective ratings of quality and preference of unknown voices and dialog partners their likability for example Human natural and artificial voices are studied in passive listening and interactive scenarios In this book the background state of research and contributions to the assessment and prediction of talker quality that is constituted in voice perception and in dialog are presented Starting from theories and empirical findings from human interaction major results and approaches are transferred to the domain of human computer interaction HCI The main objective of this book is to contribute to the evaluation of spoken interaction in humans and between humans and computers and in particular to the quality subsequently attributed to the speaking system or person based on the listening and interactive experience Provides a comprehensive overview of research in evaluation of speakers and dialog partners Presents recent results on the relevance of a first passive and interactive impression Includes human and HCI evaluation results from a communicative perspective Proceedings of the 9th Italian Conference on Computational Linguistics CLiC-it 2023

AA.VV.,2024-06-26 The ninth edition of the Italian Conference on Computational Linguistics CLiC it 2023 was held from 30th November to 2nd December 2023 at Ca Foscari University of Venice in the beautiful venue of the Auditorium Santa Margherita Emanuele Severino After the edition of 2020 which was organized in fully virtual mode due to the health emergency related to Covid 19 and CLiC it 2021 which was held in hybrid mode with CLiC it 2023 we are back to a fully in presence conference Overall almost 210 participants registered to the conference confirming that the community is eager to meet in person and to enjoy both the scientific and social events together with the colleagues Computational Modeling of Human Language Acquisition Afra Alishahi,2022-06-01 Human language acquisition has been studied for centuries but using computational modeling for such studies is a relatively recent trend However computational approaches to language learning have become increasingly popular mainly due to advances in developing machine learning techniques and the availability of vast collections of experimental data on child language learning and child adult interaction Many of the existing computational models attempt to study the complex task of learning a language under cognitive plausibility criteria such as memory and processing limitations that humans face and to explain the developmental stages observed in children By simulating the process of child language learning computational models can show us which linguistic representations are learnable from the input that children have access to and which mechanisms yield the same patterns of behaviour that children exhibit during this process In doing so computational modeling provides insight into the plausible mechanisms involved in human language acquisition and inspires the development of better language models and techniques This book provides an overview of the main research questions in the field of human language acquisition It reviews the most commonly used computational frameworks methodologies and resources for modeling child language learning and the evaluation techniques used for assessing these computational models The book is aimed at cognitive scientists who want to become familiar with the available computational methods for investigating problems related to human language acquisition as well as computational linguists who are interested in applying their skills to the study of child language acquisition Different aspects of language learning are discussed in separate chapters including the acquisition of the individual words the general regularities which govern word and sentence form and the associations between form and meaning For each of these aspects the challenges of the task are discussed and the relevant empirical findings on children are summarized Furthermore the existing computational models that attempt to simulate the task under study are reviewed and a number of

case studies are presented Table of Contents Overview Computational Models of Language Learning Learning Words Putting Words Together Form Meaning Associations Final Thoughts
