National Research Council, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Space Studies Board, Committee on Principal-Investigator-Led Missions in the Space Sciences, 2006-04-22 Principal Investigator Led PI led missions are an important element of NASA's space science enterprise While several NRC studies have considered aspects of PI led missions in the course of other studies for NASA issues facing the PI led missions in general have not been subject to much analysis in those studies Nevertheless these issues are raising increasingly important questions for NASA and it requested the NRC to explore them as they currently affect PI led missions Among the issues NASA asked to have examined were those concerning cost and scheduling the selection process relationships among PI led team members and opportunities for knowledge transfer to new PIs This report provides a discussion of the evolution and current status of the Piled mission concept the ways in which certain practices have affected its performance and the steps that can carry it successfully into the future The mandate for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration NASA involves asking significant questions about the physical and biological world and seeking definitive answers Its product is new knowledge that has value to the nation NASA s flight projects are highly visible and usually the most costly elements of this process but they are only a part of the science enterprise Flight projects are founded on research that defines clear scientific goals and questions designs missions to address those questions and develops the required technologies to accomplish the missions This research is funded primarily by NASA's research and analysis R A programs Data from flight projects are transformed into knowledge through analysis and synthesis research that is funded both by R A and by the data analysis DA portion of mission operations and data analysis
