

The background of the slide is a collage of various space-related images. In the top left, there's a close-up of a satellite with large solar panels. Below it, a space station module is shown. To the left of the center, an astronaut is floating in space. In the bottom left, there's a view of a spacecraft's exterior. The right side of the slide features a large, detailed image of a Space Shuttle launching, with the orbiter and external tank clearly visible. The title text is overlaid on the top right of this shuttle image.
