The Gutenberg Project:

The Early Development of Project Gutenberg c.1970-2000 Simon Rowberry, 2023-06-29 Project Gutenberg is lauded as one of the earliest digitisation initiatives a mythology that Michael Hart its founder perpetuated through to his death in 2011 In this Element the author re examines the extant historical evidence to challenge some of Hart s bolder claims and resituates the significance of Project Gutenberg in relation to broader trends in online document delivery and digitisation in the latter half of the twentieth century especially in the World Wide Web s first decade the 1990s Through this re appraisal the author instead suggests that Hart s Project is significant as an example of what Millicent Weber has termed a digital publishing collective whereby a group of volunteers engage in producing content and that process is as meaningful as the final product

Johannes Gutenberg Stephen Feinstein, 2008 Describes the life and career of Johannes Gutenberg including the history of written text before his invention of the movable type press and the advancements in printing made after his death

The Gutenberg Galaxy Marshall McLuhan, W. Terrence Gordon, Elena Lamberti, Dominique Scheffel-Dunand, 2011-01-01 Presents McLuhan s predictions of dramatic technological innovations that have changed how we communicate

Mapping Crowdsourcing Translation in China Jun Yang, 2024-11-18 Yang explores the use of crowdsourcing in translation within the Chinese context focusing on Yeeyan the largest online translation community in China As one of the world s largest markets for language content consumption China experiences significant demand for translation services Yeeyan a pioneer among amateur translation communities in China offers an autonomous environment where the public collectively determines the content they wish to import from foreign languages The book conducts a holistic evaluation of crowdsourcing translation using a multidimensional analytical framework emphasising the interrelations among agents processes products and crowdsourcing environments Using the Yeeyan community as a case study the book investigates the motivations behind participation in Yeeyan the quality of translations produced the extent to which this quality can be controlled and how learning occurs through their participation The analysis includes the two primary types of projects facilitated by Yeeyan article translation for knowledge sharing and book translation for commercial publication Additionally Yang explores the emerging field of crisis translation assessing the applications of crowdsourcing in disaster contexts and exploring the ethical implications involved Drawing on empirically informed results the book proposes recommendations for the effective design and organisation of crowdsourcing translation projects and elucidates how such initiatives can be optimally utilised in both translation production and translation training endeavours This book is a valuable contribution to the field of translation studies offering a detailed examination of crowdsourcing translations and the participatory culture of the Chinese internet

Hyper/Text/Theory George P. Landow, 1994-12-05 In his widely acclaimed book Hypertext George P Landow described a radically new information technology and its relationship to the work of such literary theorists as Jacques Derrida and Roland

Barthes Now Landow has brought together a distinguished group of authorities to explore more fully the implications of hypertextual reading for contemporary literary theory Among the contributors Charles Ess uses the work of Jürgen Habermas and the Frankfurt School to examine hypertext's potential for true democratization Stuart Moulthrop turns to Deleuze and Guattari as a point of departure for a study of the relation of hypertext and political power Espen Aarseth places hypertext within a framework created by other forms of electronic textuality David Kolb explores what hypertext implies for philosophy and philosophical discourse Jane Yellowlees Douglas Gunnar Liestol and Mireille Rosello use contemporary theory to come to terms with hypertext narrative Terrence Harpold investigates the hypertextual fiction of Michael Joyce Drawing on Derrida Lacan and Wittgenstein Gregory Ulmer offers an example of the new form of writing hypertextuality demands ICMLG 2017 5th International Conference on Management Leadership and Governance Dr Thabang Mokoteli, 2017-03

The Protean Virgil Craig Kallendorf, 2015 The Protean Virgil argues that when we try to understand how and why different readers have responded differently to the same text over time we should take into account the physical form in which they read the text as well as the text itself Using Virgil's poetry as a case study in book history the volume shows that a succession of material forms manuscript printed book illustrated edition and computer file undermines the drive toward textual and interpretive stability This stability is the traditional goal of classical scholarship which seeks to recover what Virgil wrote and how he intended it to be understood The manuscript form served to embed Virgil's poetry into Christian culture which attempted to anchor the content into a compatible theological truth Readers of early printed material proceeded differently breaking Virgil's text into memorable moral and stylistic fragments and collecting those fragments into commonplace books Furthermore early illustrated editions present a progression of re-envisionings in which Virgil's poetry was situated within a succession of receiving cultures In each case however the material form helped to generate a method of reading Virgil which worked with this form but which failed to survive the transition to a new union of the textual and the physical This form induced instability reaches its climax with computerization which allows the reader new power to edit the text and to challenge the traditional association of Virgil's poetry with elite culture The Lady of the Lake Walter Scott, 2019-03-04
