Comparative Politics of Southeast Asia Aurel Croissant, 2022-09-01 This textbook provides a comprehensive introduction to the political systems of all ASEAN countries and Timor Leste from a comparative perspective. It investigates the political institutions, actors, and processes in eleven states, covering democracies as well as autocratic regimes. Each country study includes an analysis of the current system of governance, the party and electoral system, and an assessment of the state, its legal system, and administrative bodies. Students of political science and area studies also learn about processes of democratic transition and autocratic resilience, as well as how civil society and the media influence the political culture in each country. This second edition features revised and updated versions of all country studies and a new chapter that discusses the trends of democratization and autocratization in Southeast Asia in the late 20th and early 21st centuries.

Development and Social Policy Christian Aspalter, Kenny Teguh Pribadi, 2016-12-19 In recent years, government and policymakers around the world have shifted their attention away from money-oriented supply-side economics to institutional economics and people-oriented social and economic development. Issues such as poverty reduction, win-win solutions, and strategies in social policy and their implementation, universalization, and a variety of new large-scale conditional cash transfers programs have become ever present in the global discussion about development and social policy. This book provides win-win strategies for social policies on the ground as developed and put forward by the normative theoretical paradigm of Developmental Social Policy (DSP). Taking the state-of-the-art general development theory as a starting point of reference and discussion, it goes on to discuss in detail the key win-win strategies that form the basis and core of the DSP paradigm. It examines key related issues such as the performance of provident fund systems, the performance of conditional cash transfer systems, especially their elements that are based on asset and means testing, universalism, and extension in social security provision in the context of especially developing countries, and non-economically targeted social welfare benefits and services. Providing fully fledged theoretical guidance paired with key social policy strategies and solutions, it will be highly valuable for students and scholars of social policy, development studies, and Asia-Pacific studies. Perspectives in Southeast Asian and Pacific Prehistory Philip J. Piper, Hirofumi Matsumura, David Bulbeck, 2017-03-24 This volume brings together a diversity of international scholars unified in the theme of expanding scientific knowledge about humanity's past in the Asia-Pacific region. The contents in total encompass a deep time range concerning the origins and dispersals of anatomically modern humans, the lifestyles of Pleistocene and early Holocene Palaeolithic hunter-gatherers, the emergence of Neolithic farming communities, and the development of Iron Age societies. These core enduring issues continue to be explored throughout the vast region covered here, accordingly with a richness of results as shown by the authors. Befitting the grand scope of this volume, the individual contributions articulate perspectives from multiple study areas and lines of evidence. Many of the chapters showcase new primary field data from archaeological sites in Southeast Asia. Equally important other chapters provide updated regional summaries of research in archaeology linguistics and human biology from East Asia through to the Western Pacific Mike T Carson Associate Professor of Archaeology Micronesian Area Research Center University of Guam Perspectives on the role of the state in economic development: Taking stock of the “Developmental State” after 35 years Kyle, Jordan, 2017-01-13 This review evaluates the role of the state in development offering a new framework for understanding what capabilities states need to overcome different types of market failures This framework is employed to understand the successes and failures of state led development in Malaysia The review addresses three key questions First what do we know about developmental states and why they emerged Second what have developmental states achieved In answering this question I look not only at growth but also at structural transformation economic upgrading equity and human capability enhancement In contrast to the idea of a single East Asian model of development I find five distinct development trajectories Third how did developmental states utilize state structures to pursue development To answer this final question I examine in depth the history of state led development in Malaysia including agricultural industrial and social policies This case study sheds light on what specific institutional and political capacities helped Malaysia to improve productivity in agriculture expand the manufacturing sector and reduce inequality It also explores why Malaysia has been less successful in developing linkages with the export based manufacturing sector
