This book examines the role of courts in settling religious disputes in the context of wider debates around religion and gender. By declaring the long standing tradition of prohibiting entry of menstruating women in the Sabarimala temple unconstitutional in the Indian Young Lawyers Association v State of Kerala Sabarimala case, the Supreme Court of India has not only recognised the women's right to access the temple but also ignited debates on the role of constitutional courts in adjudicating religious disputes and bringing social transformation in India. This work explores the nexus of religious freedom and gender equality, the nature and scope of religious freedom under the Indian Constitution and judicial approaches in adjudicating religious matters. Thus, it provides a contextual and comprehensive analysis of the Sabarimala case for implementing and enforcing court-crafted constitutional rights. The book includes a discussion of how judicial interventions can bring about progressive social change that can offer valuable lessons on judicial frameworks to advance gender justice more widely. The study will be of interest to academics and researchers working in the areas of human rights law, law and religion, law and gender, social justice and constitutional law.

HUMAN RIGHTS LAW AND PRACTICE JATINDRA

KUMAR DAS, 2016-07-01. The book, written with a rich teaching and research experience, emphasises the critical evaluation of contemporary human rights law and practice with special reference to India. It also evaluates the ongoing discourse on various issues relating to life, liberty, equality and human dignity and their reflections in international human rights law, referring to state practices through constitutional guarantees, judicial decisions as well as through enacting appropriate legislations. This lucid and comprehensive book is logically organised into nine chapters. Beginning with the theoretical foundations of human rights law, referring to origin, development and theories of human rights at a preliminary level, the book proceeds to the International Bill of Human Rights, demonstrating various facets of civil and political rights as well as economic, social and cultural rights. It further discusses the importance of human rights law in protection against inhuman wrongs and examines a large number of debates concerning human right to development and protection of environment. Then it moves on to explore various issues relating to human rights in Indian Constitutional Law. The latter part of the book emphasises on the protection of rights of women and children, which has been the focal point of all human rights discussions. It also deals with the scope and ambit of the rights of indigenous peoples and minorities, including their protection. At the end, the book examines the utility and justifications of human rights law in protecting the rights of people with disabilities, divyang. Though the book is primarily designed for LLB, BA LLB and LLM and courses on human rights, it will be equally beneficial for researchers, academicians, jurists, lawyers, judges as well as members of civil society.
