Cli Fi Novel Readers Choice:

The Noah Myth in Twenty-first-century Cli-fi Novels Helen E. Mundler, 2022 Breaks new ground by both analyzing the literary qualities of four recent rewritings of the Noah myth and contextualizing their concern with climate change within the wider crises of the Anthropocene. With the rise of concern about global warming in recent years, climate change fiction or cli fi has become increasingly important both as a publishing phenomenon and as an area of academic study and research. Flood narratives have become a subsection of cli fi in their own right. This book proposes new readings of four recent rewritings of the Noah myth: Odds Against Tomorrow by Nathaniel Rich, Margaret Atwood's Maddaddam trilogy, When the Floods Came by Clare Morrall, and The Flood by Maggie Gee. Helen E. Mundler's book takes into account the wealth of criticism that has appeared on these texts in recent years, acknowledging important contributions from critics including Adam Trexler, Adeline Johns Putra, and Astrid Bracke. However, her book's strength is that it takes a new approach, going beyond the topicality of the texts and treating them not just as ideological statements but giving them their due as literary artifacts. While the importance of climate change is beyond debate, this book takes a more balanced approach that places it within a wider context of the multiple crises of the Anthropocene. y of the texts and treating them not just as ideological statements but giving them their due as literary artifacts. Cli-Fi and Class Debra J. Rosenthal, Jason de Lara Molesky, 2023-10-09 Since its emergence in the late twentieth century, climate fiction or cli fi has concerned itself as much with economic injustice and popular revolt as with rising seas and soaring temperatures. Indeed, with its insistent focus on redressing social disparities, cli fi might reasonably be classified as a form of protest literature. As environmental crises escalate and inequality intensifies, literary writers and scholars alike have increasingly scrutinized the dual exploitations of the earth's ecosystems and the socioeconomically disadvantaged. Cli-Fi and Class focuses on the representation of class dynamics in climate change narratives. With fifteen essays on the intersection of the economic and the ecological, addressing works ranging from the novels of Joseph Conrad, Cormac McCarthy, and Octavia Butler to the film Black Panther and the Broadway musical Hadestown, this collection unpacks the complex ways economic exploitation impacts planetary well-being and the ways climatic change shapes those inequities in turn.

Postfeminist Film & Literary Aesthetics Alyce Corbett, 2025-05-23

Postfeminist Film Literary Aesthetics In Search of the Female Gaze represents a novel and comprehensive study of the aesthetic and affective textual innovations of women in the 21st century from a postfeminist perspective This book both defines and helps shape the contours of four fast growing critically and commercially popular modes millennial film and fiction metamodernism an anti narrative and decorative realm named here as still life and new cli fi in which there is no clear male equivalent or in which women s work can be read as a distinct aesthetic force As the textual constellation of now is being mapped and its key texts being canonised this book contributes to the current recentring of aesthetic taste that is occurring in literature film and surrounding criticism making greater space for the appreciation of female aesthetics and for future inquiries in this field Imagining Ecocatastrophe Scott Slovic,Joyjit Ghosh,Samit Kumar Maiti,2025-08-01 This volume examines scholarly perspectives on eco imaginaries focusing in particular on how eco catastrophes have been represented in literature and different visual forms including film television and cartoons among other cultural media It draws on literary genres such as science fiction climate fiction speculative fiction petrofiction post apocalyptic narratives and nuclear fiction to examine the role that literature plays in the dissemination of information about environmental crisis in the Anthropocene and in preparing mankind for a better and sustainable future Deeply embedded in theoretical conceptualisations the essays in this volume address issues of natural disasters deforestation nuclear disasters and pandemics among others which constitute the core subjects of environmental humanities A seminal study on the literary and cultural representations of ecodisaster in the global context and with contributions from across the world this book truly interdisciplinary in nature will be an invaluable read for students academicians and researchers in literature film studies climate change studies disaster studies gender studies and cultural studies Science Fiction and Climate Change Andrew Milner,J. R. Burgmann,2020 This is a timely comprehensive and thoroughly researched study of climate fiction from around the world including novels short stories films and other formats Informed by a sociological perspective it will be an invaluable resource for students and scholars looking to enter and expand the field of climate fiction studies Putting Social Justice and Equity at the Heart of Reading for Pleasure Jane Carter,2025-03-31 This essential book discusses what reading for pleasure is and what it is not introducing some fundamental ideas about how we learn to read and how this process can impact a child s identity as a reader in classrooms that promote equality inclusion and diversity The profile and importance of Reading for Pleasure has grown significantly over the last few years and is now firmly embedded in both government policy and the Ofsted framework Developing a Reading for Pleasure school that is truly inclusive of the whole school community however can require a culture shift in relation to the teaching of reading representation in the reading environment and the knowledge and attitudes of the school community This book seeks to use the current research teacher case studies and the voices of children to address some of the issues that teachers and pre service teachers encounter when trying to develop an inclusive Reading for Pleasure culture within their schools Each chapter is co authored by teachers and researchers and includes case studies and children's perspectives. It provides practical and evidence-based advice, lesson ideas, and creative ideas to both support and challenge all school leaders, staff, and student teachers in their journey to create readers rather than children that can just read.

Climate Change Fictions Antonia Mehnert, 2016-11-04 This book highlights the importance of the cultural sphere and in particular literature in response and discussion with the unprecedented phenomenon known as climate change. Antonia Mehnert turns to a set of contemporary American works of fiction, reading them as a unique response to the challenges of representing climate change. She draws on climate change fiction texts dealing explicitly with anthropogenic climate change and explores how these works convey climate change, deal with its challenging characteristics, and with what narrative techniques they ultimately participate in its communication. Indeed, a number of challenging traits make climate change a difficult issue to engage with, including its slow and long temporal dimension, global scale, scientific controversy, and its disconnect between cause and effect. Considering such complexity and uncertainty at the source of climate change fictions, this book moves beyond a solely ecocritical analysis and shows how these climate change fictions constitute an insightful cultural repertoire valuable for discussion in the environmental humanities in general.

Policy and Practice in Climate Change and Biodiversity Conservation Asha Ramachandran, 2024-12-11 Climate change and biodiversity decline are the major challenges humankind is now facing, with profound consequences for people and the ecosystems. Continuous policy crafting is a prerequisite in mitigating climate change maladies as the world is witnessing an unprecedented eruption of climate-induced catastrophes, including heat waves, hurricanes, unseasonal rain, and diseases spurred by climate change and globalization. This book gives a bird's-eye view of climate change, biodiversity conservation, and practical policy imperatives for mitigating inauspicious climate impacts in a globalized digital era. The briefing looks at the relationships and describes policies that promote the interconnectedness of biodiversity and climate action, which is essential for effective environmental stewardship. This also conveys how improperly resolving one problem can make it harder to improve another. The book is useful for academics, policy makers, scholars, researchers, health professionals, and people involved in climate change research and mitigation strategies.

Posthumanism in the Anthropocene Esther Muñoz-González, 2023-04-20 In this book, Margaret Atwood's dystopian novels The Handmaid's Tale, the MaddAddam trilogy, The Heart Goes Last, and The Testaments are analyzed from the perspective provided by the combined views of the construction of the posthuman subject in its interactions with science and technology and the Anthropocene as a cultural field of enquiry. Posthumanist critical concerns try to dismantle anthropocentric notions of the human and defend the need for a closer relationship between humanity and the environment. Supported by the exemplification of the generic characteristics of the cli-fi genre, this book discusses the effects of climate change at the individual level and as a collective threat that can lead to a world without us. Moreover, Margaret Atwood is herself the constant object of extensive academic interest, and Posthuman theory is widely taught, researched, and explored in almost every intellectual field. This book is aimed at worldwide readers not only those interested in Margaret Atwood's oeuvre but also those interested in the debate between critical posthumanism and transhumanism together with the ethical implications of living in the Anthropocene era regarding our daily lives and practices. It will be especially attractive for academics, university teachers, postgraduates, researchers, and college students in general.

Climate Change Literacy Julia Hoydis, Roman Bartosch, Jens Martin Gurr, 2023-06-22. This Element presents a necessary intervention within the rapidly expanding field of research in the environmental humanities on climate change and environmental literacy. In contrast to the dominant science-centred literacy debates which largely ignore the unique resources of the humanities, it asks: How does literary reading contribute to climate change communication? How does this contribution relate to recent demands for environmental and related literacies? Rather than reducing the function of literature to a more pleasurable form of information transfer or its affective dimension of evoking sympathy, climate change literacy thoroughly reassesses the cognitive, affective, and pedagogic potentials of literary writing. It does so by analysing a selection of popular climate novels and by demonstrating the role of fiction in fostering a more adequate understanding of and response to climate change.
