Afflicted Nicole M. Piemonte, 2018-01-12 How medical education and practice can move beyond a narrow focus on biological intervention to recognize the lived experiences of illness suffering and death In Afflicted Nicole Piemonte examines the preoccupation in medicine with cure over care arguing that the traditional focus on biological intervention keeps medicine from addressing the complex realities of patient suffering Although many have pointed to the lack of compassion and empathy in medical practice few have considered the deeper philosophical psychological and ontological reasons for it Piemonte fills that gap examining why it is that clinicians and medical trainees largely evade issues of vulnerability and mortality and doing so offer patients compromised care She argues that contemporary medical pedagogy and epistemology are not only shaped by the human tendency to flee from the reality of death and suffering but also perpetuate it The root of the problem she writes is the educational and institutional culture that promotes reductionist understandings of care illness and suffering but avoids any authentic confrontation with human suffering and the fear and self doubt that can come with that confrontation Through a philosophical analysis of the patient practitioner encounter Piemonte argues that the doctor in escaping from authentic engagement with a patient who is suffering in fact escapes from herself Piemonte explores the epistemology and pedagogy of medicine examines its focus on calculative or technical thinking and considers how clinical detachment diminishes physicians She suggests ways that educators might cultivate the capacity for authentic patient care and proposes specific curricular changes to help students expand their moral imaginations

Transnational Horror Across Visual Media Dana Och, Kirsten Strayer, 2013-10-15 This volume investigates the horror genre across national boundaries including locations such as Africa Turkey and post Soviet Russia and different media forms illustrating the ways that horror can be theorized through the circulation reception and production of transnational media texts Perhaps more than any other genre horror is characterized by its ability to be simultaneously aware of the local while able to permeate national boundaries to function on both regional and international registers The essays here explore political models and allegories questions of cult or subcultural media and their distribution practices the relationship between regional or cultural networks and the legibility of international horror iconography across distinct media The book underscores how a discussion of contemporary international horror is not only about genre but about how genre can inform theories of visual cultures and the increasing permeability of their borders

Levinas for

Psychologists Leswin Laubscher, 2023-11-03 Levinas for Psychologists provides a rigorous yet accessible examination of Emmanuel Levinas's philosophy and its implications for psychology and the human and social sciences. Comprehensive in scope, this book traces Levinas's thought across the arc of his oeuvre from the earliest works to the last interviews and essays. Laubscher provides numerous examples of how Levinas's thought challenges current clinical and psychotherapeutic work, psychological theory, social science research, and social theory, but also offers promising alternatives. Such alternative ways to think and practice psychology are richly illuminated by accessible examples from therapy research and the social everyday. The volume makes Levinas's dense and demanding philosophical language comprehensible and accessible without losing the radical, profound, and poetic qualities of the original. Issues of justice, racism, and nature are addressed throughout, and these insights and conclusions are placed within a contemporary context. This book is essential reading for psychologists, philosophers, and anyone interested in the legacy of Levinas's work. Thinking Difference with Heidegger and Levinas Rozemund Uljée, 2020-06-01 Tracing the relationship between truth and justice as articulated by Heidegger and Levinas, Rozemund Uljée presents the relation between the two thinkers as a subtle, profound, and complex rapport which includes both their proximity and radical difference. This rapport is conceived not as a confrontation but rather as a transformation, as Levinas's notion of justice does not renounce Heidegger's account of truth and its deployment. Thinking Difference with Heidegger and Levinas shows how the ethical relation transforms the essence and task of philosophy in its entirety, since it shifts the orientation of philosophy and the task of thinking from its concern with truth as ground or foundation to a question of justice. As a result, philosophy is no longer riveted to Being and its truth but answers to the call for justice and must be conceived of as infinite commencement, where its impossibility to totalize meaning ensures that it remains open to the alterity of transcendence. Encountering Artificial Intelligence Matthew J. Gaudet, Noreen Herzfeld, Paul Scherz, Jordan J. Wales, 2024-03-15 What does it mean to consider the world of AI through a Christian lens? Rapid developments in AI continue to reshape society, raising new ethical questions and challenging our understanding of the human person. Encountering Artificial Intelligence draws on Pope Francis's discussion of a culture of encounter and broader themes in Catholic social thought in order to examine how current AI applications affect human relationships in various social spheres and offers concrete recommendations for better implementation. The document also explores questions regarding personhood, consciousness, and the kinds of relationships humans might have with even the most advanced AI. Through these discussions, the document investigates the theoretical and practical challenges to interpersonal encounter raised by the age of AI.
