University of Amsterdam Utrecht University the Netherlands Multilingualism is becoming the default in our global world The present day global citizens use different languages in different situations Apart from their mother tongue they learn languages that give them access to other regions nations and worlds In all countries of the European Union for instance at least one foreign language is mandatory in secondary schools Most students are taught English as a foreign language the lingua franca in Europe In large parts of the USA students move from Spanish to English schooling In parts of Canada bilingual education is standard In Catalonia Spain children learn Catalan and Spanish in Hong Kong English and Chinese The smaller the world becomes the more languages are used and learned For writing process research this development into multilingualism entails at least two challenges First of all studying the relation between writing in L1 and L2 provides an opportunity for collaborative studies in different language settings Second the issue of generalization of findings comes to the fore It becomes evident now that we have unjustly neglected this issue in writing process research We forgot to ask whether it is feasible to talk about writing processes in general without referring to the language of the written texts and without taking into account the educational and linguistic culture in which these texts originate Congressional Record United States. Congress,1979 Resources in Education ,1995 Studying Educational and Social Policy Ronald H. Heck,2004-07-19 The overall purpose of this text is to introduce beginning researchers to the study of educational and social policy how it has been examined from a scholarly perspective and the salient issues to consider in conceptualizing and conducting policy research The emphasis is on introducing the various policy fields within the public sector for example education energy health labor are much too diverse to include in depth in a single volume on theoretical concepts and research methods The focus is not so much on the substance of policymaking as on understanding the interplay between how policy is made and implemented and the various conceptual approaches and methods researchers can use to frame and conduct policy studies The underlying assumption is that a critique of the substantive theoretical and methodological issues involved in studying policy can help researchers conduct policy studies that are more informative in guiding policy development and more effective in assessing the impact of policy reforms Part I acquaints readers with substantive issues and challenges related to the study of the policy process and includes chapters on federalism and policymaking and on studying policy development implementation and impact Part II examines different conceptual frameworks and theories for the study of policy with chapters on political culture and policymaking the punctuated equilibrium theory and the advocacy coalition framework economic and organizational perspectives and new approaches e g feminism critical theory postmodernism Part III focuses research methods for studying policy covering research design qualitative methods multilevel methods for policy research and growth modeling methods for examining policy change Part IV compares the diversity of approaches used by policy scholars with respect to their strengths and weaknesses and presents a number of issues for further consideration in conducting policy research This introduction to theories and methods of conducting policy research is intended to give prospective researchers an appreciation of the relationship among policy problems empirical methods and practice and to contribute to building their skills in conceptualizing and conducting policy research that answers important questions The text includes examples of studies to illustrate the diversity of methodological techniques and discusses issues related to the design and conduct of original educational policy studies Studying Educational and Social Policy Theoretical Concepts and Research Methods is designed primarily for graduate courses in educational policy and educational research and is appropriate as well for research methodology courses in other disciplines including statistics and research methodology in the social sciences organizational studies public policy and political science California.
