Sword Behind Shield Budapest Operation:

Soviet Cavalry Operations During the Second World War John S. Harrel, 2019-09-30 The author of The Nisibis War analyzes the Red Army's usage of horse mounted units along the Soviet German Eastern Front during World War II While the development of tanks had largely led to the replacement of cavalry in most armies by 1939 the Soviets retained a strong mounted arm In the terrain and conditions of the Eastern Front they were able to play an important role denied them elsewhere John Harrel shows how the Soviets developed a doctrine of deep penetration using cavalry formations to strike into the Axis rear disrupting logistics and lines of communication encircling and isolating units Interestingly he also shows that this doctrine did not stem from the native cavalry tradition of the steppe but from the example of the American Civil War The American approach was copied by the Russians in WWI and the Russian Civil War refined by the Soviets in the early stages of World War Two and perfected during the last two years of the war The Soviet experience demonstrated that deep operations cavalry raids against enemy rear echelons set the conditions for victory Although the last horse mounted units disappeared in the 1950s their influence led directly to the formation of the Operational Manoeuvre Groups that ironically faced U S forces in the Cold War An expansive analysis of the technical tactical and operational employment of Soviet cavalry against the Germans and their Axis allies For practitioners who want to understand the history and development the book is a goldmine of overlooked campaigns and actions The book's dense and detailed presentation makes it valuable to operational planners and those interested in the Soviet German war ARMOR Magazine From the Realm of a Dying Sun Douglas E. Nash, 2020-10-30 A veritable tour de force of Eastern Front armored combat replete with slashing counterattacks defending to the last man and overcoming odds Mark J Reardon author of Victory at Mortain On Christmas Eve 1944 the men of the IV SS Panzerkorps and its two divisions the 3rd SS Panzer Division Totenkopf and the 5th SS Panzer Division Wiking were eagerly anticipating what the holiday would bring including presents from home and perhaps sharing a bottle of schnapps or wine with their comrades This was not to be for that very evening the corps commander SS Obergruppenführer Herbert Otto Gille received a telephone call notifying him that the 35 000 men of his corps would begin boarding express trains the following day that would take them from the relative quiet of the Vistula Front to the front lines in Hungary hundreds of kilometers away Their mission Relieve Budapest Thus would begin the final round in the saga of the IV SS Panzerkorps In Hungary it would play a key role in the three attempts to raise the siege of that fateful city Threatened as much by their high command as by the forces of the Soviet Union Gille and his troops overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles in their attempts to rescue the city's garrison only to have their final attack called off at the last minute At that moment they were only a few kilometers away from the objective towards which they had striven for nearly a month After the relief attempt's failure sealed the fate of hundreds of thousands of Hungarians and Germans the only course of action remaining was to dig in and protect the Hungarian oilfields as long as possible Siege of Budapest 1944-45 Balázs Mihályi, 2022-05-26 A gripping and detailed study of the brutal urban battle for Budapest which saw German and Hungarian troops struggling to halt the joint Soviet Romanian offensive to take the key city on the Danube The 52 day long siege of Budapest witnessed some of the most destructive urban fighting of the war The Transdanubia region was strategically vital to Nazi Germany for its raw materials and industry and because of the bridgehead it allowed into Austria As a result Hitler declared Budapest a fortress city in early December 1944 The battle for the city pitted 90 000 German and Hungarian troops against 170 000 Soviet 2nd and 3rd Ukrainian Fronts and Romanian attackers The operations to take the city ran across several phases from the initial Soviet approach to Budapest commencing in late October 1944 through the encirclement of city first on the Pest side of the Danube and then on the Buda bank and on to the savage urban fighting that began in December 1944 for the Hungarian capital This superbly detailed work analyses the background chronology and consequences of the siege from both a military and political perspective and documents the huge losses in military and civilian casualties and material damage

Operation H ss or Aktion H ss was the codename for the mass deportation of Hungarian Jews and their murder in the gas chambers of Birkenau extermination camp Between 14 May and 9 July 1944 420 000 Jews were sent to Auschwitz from Hungary or about 12 000 per day On arrival some twenty five percent were selected for forced labor while the remainder were immediately gassed The name of this atrocity came from Rudolf H ss who returned as the commandant of Auschwitz to increase the killing capacity and ensure the smooth running of the operation The specially built railway line into Birkenau from Auschwitz made transports to the camp more efficient enabling the SS to increase the daily killing capacity After the war SS Adolf Eichmann who had organized the deportations from Hungary boasted that Operation H ss was an achievement never matched before or since This shocking book tells the story of this inhuman venture from its conception and planning and though to the bitter tragic end BRIXMIS and the Secret Cold War Andrew Long, 2024-09-30 A detailed account of British intelligence operations in Cold War East Germany revealing Soviet and East German military secrets from 1946 to 1990 The German Democratic Republic or East Germany was the frontline in the Cold War packed with hundreds of thousands of Soviet and East German troops armed with the latest Warsaw Pact equipment lined up along the 1 400 km Inner German Border However because of the repressive East German police state little human intelligence about these forces reached the West Who were they Where were they located What were they doing How were they equipped What were their intentions NATO was lined up in West Germany to face these forces and relied on getting up to date intelligence to warn of any threat Indicators of Hostility that could be a precursor to an invasion BRIXMIS the British Commanders in Chief Mission to the Soviet Forces in Germany was on hand to provide that intelligence Thanks to an obscure 1946 agreement between the British and Soviets that established liaison missions in their respective zones of occupation the British were able to send highly qualified military observers into East Germany to roam relatively freely and keep an eye on what was going on What started as liaison a point of contact between the British and Soviet occupation forces developed into a very sophisticated intelligence collection operation sending tours out every day of the year between 1946 and when the Mission closed in 1990 These tours were undertaken in high performance highly modified marked vehicles with personnel in uniform and unarmed apart from professional photographic equipment and occasionally some top secret gadgets from the boffins back in the UK They joined their French and American colleagues in snooping around the opposition photographing military bases equipment and maneuvers and trying to evade capture by the secret police and counterintelligence units They faced danger and violence daily but thanks to their bravery and professionalism the West had accurate and up to date information on what was happening in East Germany which helped keep the peace all that time This is the story of this little known unit
