Patten, 2013-09-11 Systems Analysis and Simulation in Ecology Volume IV continues the organization begun in Volume III to document a meeting Modeling and Analysis of Ecosystems held at the University of Georgia on 13 March 1973 Several chapters are considerably expanded over their original concept and several others are included which were not part of the symposium The book is organized into five parts Part I contains chapters on estuarine marine ecosystems Part II presents models of several terrestrial ecosystems Part III has chapters devoted to human aspects of ecology Part IV considers special problems of ecosystem modeling namely linear versus nonlinear models aggregation and validation Part V the most extensive section describes theory in ecosystem analysis The book's chapters demonstrate the current scope of systems ecology its past and present emphasis on parts and mechanisms in simulation modeling and its movement toward systems analysis and new more formal consideration of wholes in theory They make clear that although the systems approach is young in ecology it has substantially enriched the science both methodologically and conceptually EPA-600/3, 1979-10 Systems Analysis and Simulation in Ecology Bernard C. Systems Analysis and Simulation in Ecology Bernard C. Patten, 2013-09-11 Systems Analysis and Simulation in Ecology Volume I is a book of ecology in transition from a soft science synecology to a hard science systems ecology It is an enthusiastic and optimistic statement about the fundamental adaptability of the scientific mechanism to newly appreciated truths of existence It documents in ecological science a move away from the explanatory or cognitive criterion toward the predictive criterion a hard one with the potential of leading ultimately to optimal design and control of ecosystems The book is organized into three parts Part I is an overview of some of the methods and rationales for ecological systems modeling for the purposes of simulation and systems analysis It provides an elementary introduction to the use of analog and digital computers for simulation and a rationale for ecological model building Part II illustrates three different approaches to population modeling These include a mathematical analysis of microbial Chlorella Selenastrum dynamics in both continuous and batch cultures and a bioenergetics study of the terrestrial isopod Armadillidium utilizing concepts from control theory and the transfer function technique of classical dynamic analysis Part III brings together a group of papers describing various aspects and philosophies of ecological simulation These include common problems in ecosystem simulation and the question whether or not some of the newer methods of systems ecology might not be used in connection with some of the older data and observations of traditional synecology Ecological Research Series ,1977 General Technical Report RM. ,1986 Aquatic Toxicology and Environmental Fate T. M. Poston, Rich Purdy, 1986 The Background of Ecology Robert P.
