Renegotiating Community William D. Coleman, Diana Brydon, 2009-01-01 Both as a concept and a set of social relationships community is central to contemporary debates about globalization Faced with finding a livable response to globalization many communities are renegotiating their identities and functions and in some instances entirely new communities are being formed Yet there is no clear consensus on why community matters or on how globalization affects particular communities Renegotiating Community asks what happens to the autonomy of individuals and communities under the influence of globalization Original case studies show how a range of communities are renegotiating the meanings of community and autonomy while living with and sometimes challenging the processes of globalization By addressing the coercive and comforting dimensions of community as well as the need to reconcile conflicting claims to autonomy this book redraws the conceptual maps through which community globalization and autonomy are understood
