Small Change Small Change:

No Small Change Tessa Hebb, 2008 In No Small Change Tessa Hebb examines the ability of pension funds now the largest single driver of financial markets around the world to use their ownership position to change corporate practices for the sake of the bottom line and perhaps change the world for the better in the process Pension funds are not the new moral conscience of the twenty first century but they are significant owners of today s corporations Because pension funds have to pay out benefits over many decades they are increasingly concerned about the long term value of the stocks they hold in their portfolios Risks posed by climate change can have a huge impact on future returns To lower the risks associated with an uncertain future pension funds are engaging corporations and using their influence to raise the environmental social and governance ESG standards of companies At its best Hebb finds corporate engagement offers a long term view of value that both promotes higher ESG standards and adds share value thus providing long term benefits to future pension beneficiaries At its worst it may divert the attention of pension fund officials from their primary responsibility of ensuring the retirement benefits of their members This book weighs the influence of corporate engagement on firms in an effort to see how the potential from this newly emerging force is being realized Catechism of the Christian Religion; Being, with Some Small Changes, a Compendium of the Catechism of Montpellier [of F. A. Pouget] ... by ... S. Keenan ,1851 in operational PFI projects Great Britain: National Audit Office, 2008-01-17 This NAO report forms part of a number of NAO reports looking at PFI Private Finance Initiative projects undertaken across the public sector PFIs are contractual arrangements with private sector companies to design build finance and operate institutions such as schools and hospitals At present there are over 500 operational projects throughout the UK with a combined capital of 44 billion It is also estimated that including future payments with many projects running up until 2031 32 capital will rise to 91 billion Given the length of many of the contracts it is inevitable that operational changes to services will be required so it is important that PFI contracts have flexibility with built in value for money The report is divided into three parts with appendices The NAO has set out a number of finding including that PFI deals are offering sufficient flexibility to the public sector that some projects achieve better value than others but that i higher value changes were not always competitively tendered ii for minor works there was little consistency in the methods used by the public sector iii that the cost of replacing items throughout the life of the contract was also inconsistently applied iv that contractors had often charged additional fees which were not specified in the original contract The NAO recommendations include where there is a relevant contract clause competitive tendering should be undertaken for existing contract deals authorities employing contractors need to put in place consistent and robust means to validate the costs of small changes public authorities should explore with their private sector partners the feasibility of clarifying current contracts so they follow current best practice contract management should be properly resourced in order to manage the change process Public sector authorities could improve value for money of operational changes by adopting a strategic approach to changes keeping a good permanent record of changes and payments made fostering open lines of communication with front line users and other stakeholders as well as the PFI contractor
