The examples are soundly constructed and resonate with students. These materials are my go-to resources. Candice Johnston, associate director of student leadership and organizations, Wake Forest University. If I were building a new course to improve student success, it would be founded on emotional intelligence. All the instruction in the world on study skills cannot touch the advantages that come to students who are able to manage their emotional intelligence. And the best news of all is that these skills can be taught. EQ skills make the difference. Randy L. Swing, executive director, Association for Institutional Research. This Facilitation and Activity Guide is particularly useful, offering options from which the facilitator can draw in preparing assignments or learning community meetings.
