Flaxington,2014-10 Selling is as old as civilization itself Put in the simplest of terms selling is the exchange of goods and services for something of value To financial advisors however the sale is often seen in a negative light and many cringe at the word sell Interestingly the same advisors who shy away from the concept of selling are often those who find themselves selling every single day Sometimes they re even participating in the selling process multiple times throughout the day and they may not realize it Asking for client referrals developing strategic alliances seeking and talking with new prospects are all obvious parts of the selling process but selling happens every time you remind a client why it s a good choice to do business with you too The fact is that most CFAs R CFPs R CPAs and other professionals did not obtain these titles because deep down they really wanted to be in sales Most times their interests tend more toward data analysis and more solitary orientations Selling is probably the last thing those who entered these fields were thinking of doing They may not have considered the people aspect of their chosen profession the aspect that involves sales For this reason and some others turning into a salesperson seems like a negative degrading thing Many advisors will conjure up the picture of the slimy used car sales guy It s time to recognize selling as the valuable activity that it is It is a way to Let people know who you are and what you do well Get your message out to those who need it Promote your planning process wealth management services or investment expertise Use your relationship skills to close new business Take your business to the next level If you want to grow your business the bottom line is that you or someone on your team need to sell and to sell well This book will offer guidance on how you can sell in a comfortable and effective manner 101 Advisor Solutions: A Financial Advisor's Guide to Strategies that Educate, Motivate and Inspire! Daniel C.
