cleaners Driverless cars which are nothing less than autonomous robots are starting to appear on our streets There is a huge effort underway in industry and universities to develop the next generation of more intelligent autonomous mobile robots Accompanying these arrivals has been a steady stream of inflammatory articles in the media raising concerns over the impending spectre of super intelligent robots along with stories about how most jobs will soon be lost to robots Here using the Question and Answer format Phil Husbands gives a balanced and broad introduction to robotics and the current state of the field analysing where it has come from and where it might go in the future He begins with the history of robotics and its complex relationship with popular culture and then moves on to discuss the technology underlying robots in an engaging non technical way exploring the limits of what robots can actually do now and what they might be able to do in the future Naturally these machines which often seem to display life like properties are attracting great attention Do they pose a threat or an unprecedented opportunity And although the singularity may not be something to worry about there are certainly ethical issues needing consideration as robots with some intelligence are used increasingly across many sectors Husbands considers both these ethical problems and also the wider socio political challenges that robots are already creating and the larger ones they might bring in the future
