The Phoenix and the Carpet Edith Nesbit,2024-11-23 THE BIRD ROSE in its nest of fire stretched its wings and flew out into the room It flew round and round and round again and where it passed the air was warm Then it perched on the fender The children looked at each other Then Cyril put out a hand towards the bird It put its head on one side and looked up at him as you may have seen a parrot do when it is just going to speak so that the children were hardly astonished at all when it said Be careful I am not nearly cool yet They were not astonished but they were very very much interested They looked at the bird and it was certainly worth looking at Its feathers were like gold It was about as large as a bantam only its beak was not at all bantam shaped I believe I know what it is said Robert Ive seen a picture He hurried away A hasty dash and scramble among the papers on fathers study table yielded as the sum books say the desired result But when he came back into the room holding out a paper and crying I say look here the others all said Hush and he hushed obediently and instantly for the bird was speaking Which of you it was saying put the egg into the fire He did said three voices and three fingers pointed at Robert The bird bowed at least it was more like that than anything else I am your grateful debtor it said with a highbred air The children were all choking with wonder and curiosityall except Robert He held the paper in his hand and he KNEW He said so He said I know who you are And he opened and displayed a printed paper at the head of which was a little picture of a bird sitting in a nest of flames You are the PHOENIX said Robert and the bird was quite pleased My fame has lived then for two thousand years it said Allow me to look at my portrait It looked at the page which Robert kneeling down spread out in the fender and said Its not a flattering likeness And what are these characters it asked pointing to the printed part The Phoenix and the Carpet (Illustrated) Edith Nesbit,2022-02-15 The Phoenix and the Carpet is a fantasy novel for children written by E Nesbit and first published in 1904 It is the second in a trilogy of novels that begins with Five Children and It and follows the adventures of the same five children Cyril Anthea Robert Jane and the Lamb written by E Nesbit and first published in 1904 It is the second in a trilogy of novels that begins with Five Children and It 1902 and follows the adventures of the same five children Cyril Anthea Robert Jane and the Lamb Their mother buys the children a new carpet to replace one from the nursery that they have destroyed in an accidental fire The children find an egg in the carpet which hatches into a talking Phoenix The Phoenix explains that the carpet is a magic one that will grant them three wishes a day The five children go on many adventures which eventually wears out their magic carpet The adventures are continued and concluded in the third book of the trilogy The Story of the Amulet 1906 Plot This middle volume of the trilogy that begins with Five Children and It and concludes with The Story of the Amulet and deviates somewhat from the other two in that the Psammead is mentioned only briefly and in this volume the five children live with both their parents in the family home in London In both the other volumes circumstances have forced the children to spend protracted periods away from their home and their father A continuing theme throughout The Phoenix and the Carpet is the ancient element of fire The story begins shortly before November 5 celebrated in Britain as Guy Fawkes Night The four children have accumulated a small hoard of fireworks for the night but they are too impatient to wait until November 5 to light them so they set off a few samples in the nursery This results in the fire that destroys the carpet Their parents purchase a second hand carpet which is found to contain an egg that emits a phosphorescent glow The children accidentally knock this egg into the fire it hatches revealing a golden Phoenix who speaks perfect English It develops that this is a magic carpet that can transport the children anywhere they wish in the present time although it is capable of satisfying only three wishes a day Accompanied by the Phoenix the children have exotic adventures There is one moment of terror when the youngest the baby known as the Lamb crawls onto the carpet babbles incoherently and vanishes but it turns out that the Lamb only desires to be with his mother At a few points in the novel the children find themselves in predicaments from which the Phoenix is unable to rescue them by himself so he goes to find the Psammead and has a wish granted for the children's sake In addition at the end the carpet is sent to ask the Psammead to grant the Phoenix's wish These offstage incidents are the only contributions made by the Psammead to this story The Phoenix and the Carpet features depictions of London during the reign of Edward VII At one point the children and their supernatural bird visit the Phoenix Fire Insurance Company the egotistical Phoenix assumes that this is a temple dedicated to him and that the insurance executives must be his acolytes The children also have an encounter with two older ruffians Herb and Ike who attempt to steal the Phoenix Four of the children without the Lamb attend a Christmas pantomime at a theatre in the West End of London smuggling the Phoenix along inside Robert's coat The Phoenix is so excited by this spectacle that he unintentionally sets fire to the theatre All ends well when the Phoenix magically reverses the damage no one is harmed and the theatre remains intact Edith Nesbit married name Edith Bland 15 August 1858 4 May 1924 was an English author and poet she published her books for children under the name of E Nesbit
