Soul Make A Path Through Shouting:

The Civil Rights Reader Julie Buckner Armstrong, Amy Schmidt, 2009-01-01 This anthology of drama essays fiction and poetry presents a thoughtful classroom tested selection of the best literature for learning about the long civil rights movement Unique in its focus on creative writing the volume also ranges beyond a familiar 1954-68 chronology to include works from the 1890s to the present The civil rights movement was a complex ongoing process of defining national values such as freedom justice and equality In ways that historical documents cannot these collected writings show how Americans negotiated this process politically philosophically emotionally spiritually and creatively Gathered here are works by some of the most influential writers to engage issues of race and social justice in America including James Baldwin Flannery O'Connor Amiri Baraka and Nikki Giovanni The volume begins with works from the post Reconstruction period when racial segregation became legally sanctioned and institutionalized This section titled The Rise of Jim Crow spans the period from Frances E W Harper's Iola Leroy to Ralph Ellison's Invisible Man In the second section The Fall of Jim Crow Martin Luther King Jr's Letter from Birmingham Jail and a chapter from The Autobiography of Malcolm X appear alongside poems by Robert Hayden June Jordan and others who responded to these key figures and to the events of the time Reflections and Continuing Struggles the last section includes works by such current authors as Rita Dove Anthony Grooms and Patricia J Williams These diverse perspectives on the struggle for civil rights can promote the kinds of conversations that we as a nation still need to initiate

Soul Make a Path Through Shouting Cyrus Cassells, 1994 A collection of poems on the ability of the human spirit to soar in adverse conditions In Fleur a woman says Yes there were lupines in the camp and our joy in them was real as real as our misery We would find some little corner of the barracks to put them on display we would pick and scoop them into our arms after a day of forced labor

Learning by Heart Maggie Anderson, David Hassler, 1999 A collection of poems written primarily between 1970 and 1995 by contemporary American poets that recall the experiences of elementary and high school

Into a Light Both Brilliant and Unseen Malin Pereira, 2010-12-01 Malin Pereira's collection of eight interviews with leading contemporary African American poets offers an in-depth look at the cultural and aesthetic perspectives of the post Black Arts Movement generation This volume includes unpublished interviews Pereira conducted with Wanda Coleman Yusef Komunyakaa Thylas Moss Harryette Mullen Cornelius Eady and Elizabeth Alexander as well as conversations with Rita Dove and Cyrus Cassells previously in print Largely published since 1980 each of these poets has at least four books Their influence on new generations of poets has been wide reaching The work of this group says Pereira is a departure from the previous generation's proscriptive manifestos in favor of more inclusive voices perspectives and techniques Although these poets reject a rigid adherence to a specific black aesthetic their work just as effectively probes racism stereotyping and racial politics Unlike Amiri Baraka's claim in Home that he becomes blacker and blacker positioning race as a defining essence these poets imagine a plurality of ideas about the relationship between blackness and black poetry They question the idea of an established literary canon defining black literature For these poets Pereira says the idea of home is found both in black poetry circles and in the wider transnational community of literature A Sarah Mills Hodge Foundation Publication

A Critical Introduction to Law and Literature Kieran Dolin, 2007-03-15 Despite their apparent separation law and literature have been closely linked fields throughout history Linguistic creativity is central to the law with literary modes such as narrative and metaphor infiltrating legal texts Equally legal norms of good and bad conduct of identity and human responsibility are reflected or subverted in literature s engagement with questions of law and justice Law seeks to regulate creative expression while literary texts critique and sometimes openly resist the law Kieran Dolin introduces this interdisciplinary field focusing on the many ways that law and literature have addressed and engaged with each other He charts the history of the shifting relations between the two disciplines from the open affiliation between literature and law in the sixteenth century Inns of Court to the less visible links of contemporary culture Originally published in 2007 this book provides an accessible guide to one of the most exciting areas of interdisciplinary scholarship

Black Nature Camille T. Dungy, 2009 Black Nature is the first anthology to focus on nature writing by African American poets a genre that until now has not commonly been counted as one in which African American poets have participated Black poets have a long tradition of incorporating treatments of the natural world into their work but it is often read as political historical or protest poetry anything but nature poetry This is particularly true when the definition of what constitutes nature writing is limited to work about the pastoral or the wild Camille T Dungy has selected 180 poems from 93 poets that provide unique perspectives on American social and literary history to broaden our concept of nature poetry and African American poetics This collection features major writers such as Phillis Wheatley Rita Dove Yusef Komunyakaa Gwendolyn Brooks Sterling Brown Robert Hayden Wanda Coleman Natasha Trethewey and Melvin B Tolson as well as newer talents such as Douglas Kearney Major Jackson and Janice Harrington Included are poets writing out of slavery Reconstruction the Harlem Renaissance the Black Arts Movement and late twentieth and early twenty first century African American poetic movements Black Nature brings to the fore a neglected and vital means of considering poetry by African Americans and nature related poetry as a whole A Friends Fund Publication

Notre Dame Review ,1996

Learning from Birmingham Julie Buckner Armstrong, 2023-05-22 As Birmingham goes so goes the nation Fred Shuttlesworth observed when he invited Martin Luther King Jr to the city for the transformative protests of 1963 From the height of the civil rights movement through its long aftermath the images of police dogs and fire hoses turned against protestors and the four girls murdered when Ku Klux Klan members bombed the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church made the city an uncomfortable racial mirror for the nation But like many white people who came of age in the civil rights movement s wake Julie Buckner Armstrong knew little about her hometown s history growing up with her single working class mother in 1960s and 70s It was only after moving away and discovering writers like Toni Morrison and Alice Walker that she began to realize that her hometown and her family were part of a larger story of racial injustice and struggle In recent years however Birmingham has rebranded itself as a vibrant diverse destination for civil rights heritage tourism Former sites of violence have been transformed into a large moving National Park Service memorial complex that includes a museum public art churches and multiple walking tours But beyond the tourist map one can see in Birmingham just like Anytown USA a new Jim Crow reemerging in the place where the old one supposedly died Returning home decades later to care for her aging mother Shuttlesworth's admonition rang in her mind By then an accomplished scholar and civil rights educator Armstrong found herself pondering the lessons Birmingham has for America in the twenty first century where a 2014 Teaching Tolerance report characterized a common understanding of the civil rights movement in two names and four words Martin Luther King Jr Rosa Parks and I have a dream Seeking to better understand her hometown's complicated history its connection to other stories of oppression and resistance and her own place in relation to it Armstrong embarked on a journey to unravel the standard Birmingham narrative to see what she would find instead Beginning at the center with her family's arrival in 1947 in a neighborhood near the color line within earshot of what would become known as Dynamite Hill Armstrong works her way out in time and across the map Pulling at strings and weaving in the personal stories of her white working class family classmates and other local characters not traditionally associated with Birmingham's civil rights history she expands the cast and forges connections between the stories that have been told about Birmingham as well as those that haven't From a funny cousin whose closeted community was also targeted by Bull Connor's police force to an aunt who served on the jury that finally convicted Robert Chambliss of murdering Denise McNair Armstrong combines intimate personal stories archival research and cultural geography to reframe the lessons of Birmingham through the intersections of race class gender faith education culture place and mobility The result is more than a pageant of Birmingham and its people it's also a portrait of Birmingham rendered on the ground over time as seen in old plantations in segregated neighborhoods across contested boundary lines over mountains along increasingly polluted waterways under the gaze of Vulcan beneath airport runways on the highways cutting through and running out of town In her search for truth and beauty in the veins of Birmingham Armstrong draws on the powers of place and storytelling to dig into the cracks complicating the easy narrative of Black triumph and overcoming Among other discoveries found in the mirror Armstrong finds a white America that for too long has failed to recognize itself in the horrific stories and symbols from Birmingham's past or accept the continuing inequalities from which it unfairly benefits A literary scholar Armstrong observes that many of the best writings on civil rights and race relations describe racism as a wound a poison or a sickness without offering easy prescriptions Citing James Baldwin Armstrong knows stories have the power to touch the human heart but warns that resistance to injustice only begins there Once engaged it is up to each of us to look again and consider what our stories really reveal about the world and ourselves In Learning From Birmingham Armstrong reminds us that the stories of civil rights structural oppression privilege whether intentional or unconscious abuse and inequity are difficult and complicated but that their telling especially from multiple stakeholder perspectives is absolutely necessary African American Review ,2009 As the official publication of the Division on Black American Literature and Culture of the Modern Language Association of America African American review promotes an exchange among writers and scholars in the arts humanities and social sciences who hold diverse perspectives of African American literature and culture Wading in the River Harold J. Recinos,2021-02-23 Wading in the River offers a poetic voice about the wonders of the world in the context of daily struggles with marginality and discloses the agency of cultural actors in them The collection s poems tell a story of longing and loss injustice and resilience terror and beauty anguish and hope for society Wading in the River offers readers the subject matter that enjoins personal experience to public life and puts a human face on abstractions like justice poverty racism anti immigrant sentiment police brutality politics and religion In these poems words seek to cut through the complexity of perception to expansively loosen a new way to find visionary clarity and to think passionately about dark spaces in social reality
