The Color Of Food Stories Of Race Resilience And Farming:

The Color of Food Natasha Bowens, 2015-05-01 Redefining the face of the American farmer The growing trend of organic farming and homesteading is changing the way the farmer is portrayed in mainstream media and yet farmers of color are still largely left out of the picture The Color of Food seeks to rectify this By recognizing the critical issues that lie at the intersection of race and food this stunning collection of portraits and stories challenges the status quo of agrarian identity Author photographer and biracial farmer Natasha Bowens quest to explore her own roots in the soil leads her to unearth a larger story weaving together the seemingly forgotten history of agriculture for people of color the issues they face today and the culture and resilience they bring to food and farming The Color of Food teaches us that the food and farm movement is about more than buying local and protecting our soil It is about preserving culture and community digging deeply into the places we've overlooked and honoring those who have come before us Blending storytelling photography oral history and unique insight these pages remind us that true food sovereignty means a place at the table for everyone If one imagines the typical American farmer many people visualize sun roughened skin faded overalls and calloused hands hands that are usually white While there's no doubt the growing trend of organic farming and homesteading is changing how the farmer is portrayed in mainstream media farmers of color are still largely left out of the picture The Color of Food Natasha Bowens, 2015-05-01 Redefining the face of the American farmer The growing trend of organic farming and homesteading is changing the way the farmer is portrayed in mainstream media and yet farmers of color are still largely left out of the picture The Color of Food seeks to rectify this By recognizing the critical issues that lie at the intersection of race and food this stunning collection of portraits and stories challenges the status quo of agrarian identity Author photographer and biracial farmer Natasha Bowens quest to explore her own roots in the soil leads her to unearth a larger story weaving together the seemingly forgotten history of agriculture for people of color the issues they face today and the culture and resilience they bring to food and farming The Color of Food teaches us that the food and farm movement is about more than buying local and protecting our soil It is about preserving culture and community digging deeply into the places we've overlooked and honoring those who have come before us Blending storytelling photography oral history and unique insight these pages remind us that true food sovereignty means a place at the table for everyone If one imagines the typical American farmer many people visualize sun roughened skin faded overalls and calloused hands hands that are usually white While there's no doubt the growing trend of organic farming and homesteading is changing how the farmer is portrayed in mainstream media farmers of color are still largely left out of the picture Beyond the Kitchen Table Priscilla McCutcheon, Latrice E.

Best, Theresa Ann Rajack-Talley, 2023-10-31 Over the last decade there has been an increasing amount of scholarship focused on race and food inequity Much of this research is focused on the United States and its densely populated urban centers Looking deeply into Black women's roles economically environmentally and socially in food and agriculture systems in the Caribbean Africa and the United States the contributors address the ways Black women both now and in the past have used food as a part of community building and sustenance They also examine matrilineal food based education the importance of Black women s social cultural and familial networks in addressing nutrition and food insecurity the ways gender intersects with class and race globally when thinking about food and how women led science and technology initiatives can be used to create healthier and more just food systems Contributors include Agnes Atia Apusigah Neela Badrie Kenia Rosa Campo Dara Cooper Kelsey Emard Claudia J Ford Hanna Garth Shelene Gomes Veronica Gordon Wendy Ann Isaac Lydia Kwoyiga Gloria Sanders McCutcheon Eveline M F W Sawadogo Compaore Ashante M Reese Sakiko Shiratori shakara tyler and Marquitta Webb

Nourished Planet Barilla Center for Food and Nutrition, 2018-06-28 Nourished Planet illustrates what our global food system can be a collection of the smartest ideas to nourish us all From urban farmers in Kenya to American doctors to government officials in Egypt its voices demonstrate how diverse perspectives are coming together to feed the world sustainably back cover

Farming While Black Leah Penniman, 2018 Farming While Black is the first comprehensive how to guide for aspiring African heritage growers to reclaim their dignity as agriculturists and for all farmers to understand the distinct technical contributions of African heritage people to sustainable agriculture At Soul Fire Farm author Leah Penniman co created the Black and Latino Farmers Immersion BLFI program as a container for new farmers to share growing skills in a culturally relevant and supportive environment led by people of color Farming While Black organizes and expands upon the curriculum of the BLFI to provide readers with a concise guide to all aspects of small scale farming from business planning to preserving the harvest Throughout the chapters Penniman uplifts the wisdom of the African diasporic farmers and activists whose work informs the techniques described from whole farm planning soil fertility seed selection and agroecology to using whole foods in culturally appropriate recipes sharing stories of ancestors and tools for healing from the trauma associated with slavery and economic exploitation on the land Woven throughout the book is the story of Soul Fire Farm a national leader in the food justice movement

Twenty Lessons in the Sociology of Food and Agriculture Jason Konefal, Maki Hatanaka, 2019 Twenty Lessons in the Sociology of Food and Agriculture examines food and agriculture from farm to fork using a sociological lens Following the Lessons format the book presents twenty sociological lessons on food and agriculture from both established and up and coming scholars Each lesson is written in an accessible and engaging format incorporates historical and contemporary topics and examples and discusses hot button issues wherever relevant The book draws primarily on cases and issues in the United States but given the global character of food and agriculture it also incorporates relevant examples from other countries

The New Food Activism Alison Alkon, Julie Guthman, 2017-06-27 New and exciting forms of food activism are emerging as supporters of sustainable agriculture increasingly recognize the need for a broader more strategic and more politicized food politics that engages with questions of social racial and economic justice This book highlights examples of campaigns to restrict industrial agriculture s use of pesticides and other harmful technologies struggles to improve the pay and conditions of workers throughout the food system and alternative projects that seek to de-emphasize notions of individualism and private ownership Grounded in over a decade of scholarly critique of food activism this volume seeks to answer the question of what next inspiring scholars students and activists toward collective cooperative and oppositional struggles for change Provided by publisher The Chesapeake Table Renee Brooks Catacalos, 2021-04-27 For consumers of all income levels an extensive guide to participating in the local food movement in the Chesapeake region There was a time when most food was local Exotic foods like olives spices and chocolate shipped in from other parts of the world were considered luxuries Now most food that Americans eat is shipped from elsewhere and many consider eating local to be a luxury Renee Brooks Catacalos is here to remind us that eating local is easier and more rewarding than we may think There is an abundance of food all around us found all over the Chesapeake region In The Chesapeake Table Catacalos examines the powerful effect of eating local in Maryland Virginia and Washington DC Hooked on the local food movement from its early days Catacalos opens the book by revisiting a personal challenge to buy prepare and eat only food grown within a 150 mile radius of her home near Washington DC From her in depth study of food systems in the region Catacalos offers practical advice for adopting a locavore diet and getting involved in various entry points to food pathways from your local farmers market to community supported agriculture CSA She also includes recipes that show how to make more environmentally conscious food choices Introducing readers to the vast edible resources of the Chesapeake region Catacalos focuses on the challenges of environmental and economic sustainability equity and diversity in the farming and food professions and access and inclusion for local consumers of all income levels ethnicities and geographies Touching on everything from farm based breweries and distilleries to urban hoop house farms to grass fed beef The Chesapeake Table celebrates the people working hard to put great local food on our plates The Industrial Food Complex Joellen McCarty, 2019-07-15 As of 2015 one in three people worked in agriculture globally With agriculture contributing only 3 percent of the global GDP it is challenging for those workers to earn a living wage Concerns are levied against companies in the food industry with questions raised about their ethics and their treatment of workers livestock and the environment The massive scale of the industry makes regulation difficult but under regulation can result in public health crises The diverse viewpoints in this volume explore the controversies challenges and solutions involved in providing food in our world today Anthropological Optimism Anna J. Willow, 2023-04-25 This book theorizes the roles of optimism in anthropological thinking research writing and practice It sets out to explore optimism's origins and implications its conceptual and practical value and its capacity to contribute to contemporary anthropological aims In an era of extensive ecological disruption and social distress this volume contemplates how an optimistic anthropology can energize the discipline while also contributing to bettering the lives communities and environments of those we study It brings together scholars diverse in background career stage and theoretical approach in a collective attempt to comprehend the myriad intersections of anthropology and optimism The challenges of the COVID 19 pandemic have recently underscored the larger longer term catastrophes of climate change ecosystemic collapse social injustice and antipathy toward scientific knowledge and those who produce it In this context exceedingly few anthropologists feel comfortable observing and documenting passively while their research communities face unrelenting waves of un natural disasters We need to act But we also need to hope Discontent with the state of the world and cultural anthropology s turn to increasingly positive future oriented and engaged work have converged to unleash a courageously optimistic anthropology This book is a timely springboard for this impactful and emergent approach
