Negotiating Waters: Seas, Oceans, and Passageways in the Colonial and Postcolonial Anglophone World André Dodeman, Nancy Pedri, 2020-01-31. This book examines how seas, oceans, and passageways have shaped and reshaped cultural identities, spurred stories of reunion and separation, and redefined entire nations. It explores how entire communities have crossed seas and oceans voluntarily or not to settle in foreign lands and undergone identity, cultural, and literary transformations. It also explores how these crossings are represented. The book thus contributes to oceanic studies, a field of study that asks how the seas and oceans have and continue to affect political narratives of exploration, cartography, international maritime law, identity, insularity, and literary issues, survival narratives, fishing stories. Divided into three sections, Negotiating Waters explores the management, the crossings, and the reimaginings of the seas and oceans that played such an important role in the configuration of the colonial and postcolonial world and imagination. In their careful considerations of how water figures prominently in maps, travel journals, diaries, letters, and literary narratives from the 17th century onwards, the three thematic sections come together to shed light on how water in all of its shapes and forms has marked lands, nations, and identities. They thus offer readers from different disciplines and with different colonial and postcolonial interests the possibility to investigate and discover new approaches to maritime spaces. By advancing views on how seas and oceans exert power through representation, Negotiating Waters engages in important critical work in an age of rising concern about maritime environments.
