David Bordwell, 2017-10-02 In the 1940s American movies changed Flashbacks began to be used in outrageous unpredictable ways Soundtracks flaunted voice over commentary and characters might pivot from a scene to address the viewer Incidents were replayed from different characters viewpoints and sometimes those versions proved to be false Films now plunged viewers into characters memories dreams and hallucinations Some films didn't have protagonists while others centered on anti heroes or psychopaths Women might be on the verge of madness and neurotic heroes lurched into violent confrontations Combining many of these ingredients a new genre emerged the psychological thriller populated by women in peril and innocent bystanders targeted for death If this sounds like today's cinema that's because it is In Reinventing Hollywood David Bordwell examines the full range and depth of trends that crystallized into traditions He shows how the Christopher Nolans and Quentin Tarantinos of today owe an immense debt to the dynamic occasionally delirious narrative experiments of the Forties Through in depth analyses of films both famous and virtually unknown from Our Town and All About Eve to Swell Guy and The Guilt of Janet Ames Bordwell assesses the era's unique achievements and its legacy for future filmmakers developments in this area There are two ways of approaching the problem of describing and explaining suspense an analysis of suspenseful texts or the reception process Researchers who follow the more text oriented approach identify the uncertainty of the narrative outcome the threat or danger for the protagonist the play with time delay or other factors as important and necessary for the production of suspense The more reception oriented scholar focuses on the cognitive activities of audiences readers expectations the curiosity of onlookers their emotions and their relationships with the protagonists A correspondence between the two seems to be quite difficult though necessary to determine Both perspectives are important in order to describe and explain suspense Thus the editors utilize the thesis that suspense is an activity of the audience reader onlooker etc that is related to specific features and characteristics of the text books films etc Their question is What kind of relation The answer comes from finding out how why and which elements of the text cause effects that are experienced as suspense Scholars from semiotics literary criticism cultural studies and film theory assess the problem from a text oriented point of view dealing primarily with the how and which Other scholars present the psychological perspective by focusing on the cognitive and emotional processes that underlie viewers experience of suspense that is the reception theory tries to answer the question of why suspenseful texts may be experienced as they are

The Rebirth of Suspense Rick Warner, 2024-09-17 Typically films are suspenseful when they keep us on the edge of our seats when glimpses of a turning doorknob a ticking clock or a looming silhouette quicken our pulses Exemplified by Alfred Hitchcock's masterworks and the countless thrillers they influenced such films captivate viewers with propulsive plots that spur emotional investment in the fates of protagonists. Suspense might therefore seem to be a curious concept to associate with art films featuring muted characters, serene landscapes and unrushed rhythms in which plot is secondary to mood and tone. This ambitious and wide-ranging book offers a redefinition of suspense by considering its unlikely incarnations in the contemporary films that have been called slow cinema. Rick Warner shows how slowness builds suspense through atmospheric immersion, narrative sparseness and the withholding of information, causing viewers to oscillate among boredom, curiosity and dread. He focuses on works in which suspense arises where the boundaries between art cinema and popular genres such as horror, thriller, science fiction and gothic melodrama become indefinite, including Chantal Akerman's La captive, Apichatpong Weerasethakul's Memoria, Jonathan Glazer's Under the Skin, Kelly Reichardt's Night Moves, Lucrecia Martel's Zama, Kiyoshi Kurosawa's Creepy and David Lynch's Twin Peaks: The Return. Warner investigates the pivotal role of sound in generating suspense and traces how the experience of suspense has changed in the era of digital streaming. The Rebirth of Suspense develops a fresh theory, history, typology and analysis of suspense that casts new light on the workings of films across global cinema.
