The Ethics of Creativity Brian G. Henning, 2011-12-09 Foreword by Daniel A Dombrowski A central concern of nearly every environmental ethic is its desire to extend the scope of direct moral concern beyond human beings to plants nonhuman animals and the systems of which they are a part Although nearly all environmental philosophies have long since rejected modernity's conception of individuals as isolated and independent substances few have replaced this worldview with an alternative that is adequate to the organic processive world in which we find ourselves In this context Brian G Henning argues that the often overlooked work of Alfred North Whitehead has the potential to make a significant contribution to environmental ethics Additionally inspired by classical American philosophers such as William James John Dewey and Charles Sanders Pierce and environmental philosophers such as Aldo Leopold Peter Singer Albert Schweitzer and Arne Naess Henning develops an ethical theory of which the seminal insight is called The Ethics of Creativity By systematically examining and developing a conception of individuality that is equally at home with the microscopic world of subatomic events and the macroscopic world of ecosystems The Ethics of Creativity correctly emphasizes the well being of wholes while not losing sight of the importance of the unique centers of value that constitute these wholes In this way The Ethics of Creativity has the potential to be a unique voice in contemporary moral philosophy Taking Christian Moral Thought

Seriously Jeremy A. Evans, 2011-10 Christian scholars make a clear case for the legitimacy of religious beliefs in the marketplace of ideas addressing the theory of public reason voting in America environmentalism abortion education and more
