The Aid Chain Coercion And Commitment In Development Ngos:

The Aid Chain Tina Wallace, 2006 Development NGOs and Languages Hilary Footitt, Angela M. Crack, Wine Tesseur, 2020-08-12 This book addresses for the first time the question of how development NGOs attempt to listen to communities in linguistically diverse environments NGOs are under increasing pressure to demonstrate that they listen to the people and communities that they are trying to serve but this can be an immensely challenging task where there are significant language and cultural differences However until now there has been no systematic study of the role of foreign languages in development work The authors present findings based on interviews with a wide range of NGO staff and government officials NGO archives and observations of NGO community interaction in country case studies They suggest ways in which NGOs can reform their language policies to listen to the recipients of aid more effectively Aid from International NGOs Dirk-Jan Koch, 2009-02-03 International NGOs are increasingly important players within the new aid architecture but their geographic choices remain uncharted territory This book focuses on patterns of development assistance mapping while analysing and assessing the country choices of the largest international NGOs Koch's approach is interdisciplinary and uses qualitative quantitative and experimental methods to provide a clear insight in the determinants of country choices of international NGOs The book aims to discover the country choices of international NGOs how they are determined and how they could be improved This work which uses a dataset created specifically for the research comes to the conclusion that international NGOs do not target the poorest and most difficult countries They are shown to be focussing mostly on those countries where their back donors are active Additionally it was discovered that they tend to cluster their activities for example international NGOs also have their donor darlings and their donor orphans Their clustering is explained by adapting theories that explain concentration in for profit actors to the non profit context The book is the first on the geographic choices of international NGOs and is therefore of considerable academic interest especially for those focusing on development aid and third sector research Furthermore the book provides specific policy suggestions for more thought out geographic decisions of international NGOs and their back donors The Project in International Development Caitlin Scott, 2023-06-26 The project has become fundamental to international development and humanitarian practice playing a key role in defining objectives funding streams and ultimately determining what success looks like This book provides a much needed overview of the project in international development practice guiding the reader through the latest theoretical debates and exploring the core tools and stages of planning and design The book starts with an overview of the role of the project through development history before taking the reader through the stages of a standard project management cycle Each chapter introduces the stage the most common tools used to support that phase of planning and the critical debates that exist around it with examples to illustrate discussions from around the world and a range of development fields The book explores the challenges to working effectively in contemporary aid contexts including the role of politics and the pressures wrought by the demands to demonstrate quantified results Throughout the book argues for the need to see the project as a form of governmentality that arranges resources and people in time and space and that extends neoliberal forms of managerial control in the sector Ending with suggestions for innovation this book is perfect for anyone looking for an accessible and engaging guide to the international development project whether student researcher or practitioner

The Development of Aid Gerard Van Bilzen, 2015-01-12 Aid to developing countries started well before World War II but was undertaken as an ad hoc activity or was delivered by private organizations This changed after the War In his Inaugural Address in 1949 the American President Harry Truman announced a bold new programme for making the benefits of our scientific advances and industrial progress available for the improvement and growth of underdeveloped nations the so called Point IV Plan At that time it was thought that this support would be needed only for a limited number of years comparable to the Marshall Plan assistance to Europe But reality proved to be different providing aid was a very long term affair Since the Fifties the aid provided has changed at different occasions In the beginning aid concentrated on constructing infrastructure such as roads railways dams and harbours in order to promote industrial development In the Sixties aid to agriculture was added and in the Seventies aid to social sectors Basic Needs was also provided The Eighties brought worldwide debt problems Major donors applied structural adjustment policies some called this the lost decade d cada perdida The Nineties saw the arrival of the first environmental considerations and asked for attention for the role of women and good governance The form of aid changed from projects to programmes and budget support Describing the different aid forms of the last 65 years and analysing why aid changed from time to time are the subjects of this book Professionals and students in the area of international cooperation will benefit from studying this history as at this moment old concepts are reappearing or applied by new donors like China Is the pendulum really swinging back as Louis Emmerij at one point suggested

Non-Governmental Organizations and Development David Lewis, Nazneen Kanji, 2009-09-10

Non governmental organizations NGOs are high profile actors in the field of international development both as providers of services to vulnerable individuals and communities and as campaigning policy advocates This book provides a critical introduction to the wide ranging topic of NGOs and development Written by two authors with more than twenty years experience of research and practice in the field the book combines a critical overview of the main research literature with a set of up to date theoretical and practical insights drawn from experience in Asia Europe Africa and elsewhere It highlights the importance of NGOs in development but it also engages fully with the criticisms that the increased profile of NGOs in development now attracts

Non Governmental Organizations and Development begins with a discussion of the wide diversity of NGOs and their roles and locates their recent rise to prominence within broader histories of struggle as well as within the ideological context of neo liberalism It then moves on to analyze how interest in NGOs has both reflected and informed wider theoretical trends and debates within development studies before analyzing NGOs and their practices using a broad range of short case studies of successful and unsuccessful interventions David Lewis and Nazneen Kanji then moves on to describe the ways in which NGOs are increasingly important in relation to ideas and debates about civil society globalization and the changing ideas and practices of international aid The book argues that NGOs are now central to development theory and practice and are likely to remain important actors in development in the years to come In order to appreciate the issues raised by their increasing diversity and complexity the authors conclude that it is necessary to deploy a historically and theoretically informed perspective This critical overview will be useful to students of development studies at undergraduate and masters levels as well as to more general readers and practitioners The format of the book includes figures photographs and case studies as well as reader material in the form of summary points and questions Despite the growing importance of the topic no single short up to date book exists that sets out the main issues in the form of a clearly written academically informed text until now

The NGO Challenge for International Relations Theory William E. DeMars, Dennis Dijkzeul, 2015-02-11

It has become commonplace to observe the growing pervasiveness and impact of Non Governmental Organizations NGOs And yet the three central approaches in International Relations IR theory Liberalism Realism and Constructivism overlook or ignore the importance of NGOs both theoretically and politically Offering a timely reappraisal of NGOs and a parallel reappraisal of theory in IR the academic discipline entrusted with revealing and explaining world politics this book uses practice theory global governance and new institutionalism to theorize NGO accountability and analyze the history of NGOs This study uses evidence from empirical data from Europe Africa Latin America the Middle East and Asia and from studies that range across the issue areas of peacebuilding ethnic reconciliation and labor rights to show IR theory has often prejudged and misread the agency of NGOs Drawing together a group of leading international relations theorists

this book explores the frontiers of new research on the role of such forces in world politics and is required reading for students NGO activists and policy makers The Management of Non-Governmental Development Organizations David Lewis, 2006-12-11 The first edition of this book was published in 2001 by Routledge and was the first academic text on the important new emerging field of NGO management It sets out the field for researchers with a new and original conceptual framework contains a comprehensive review of existing literature from a variety of disciplines including management development studies and social policy and provides wide ranging examples from the author s own practical and research experience New to this edition twelve new detailed case studies of NGO management issues and challenges new discussion points lessons learned and questions for debate to guide the reader through each chapter definitions of key terms highlighted key ideas to illustrate each chapter Revealing the distinctive organizational challenges faced by NGOs this second edition provides a fully updated and revised text that will prove invaluable to all those studying or working in NGOs the voluntary sector or development studies Visit the Companion website at www.routledge.com/textbooks/978041537093
