Situating Children of Migrants across Borders and Origins Claudio Bolzman, Laura Bernardi, Jean-Marie Le Goff, 2017-10-25 This open access wide ranging collation of papers examines a host of issues in studying second generation immigrants their life courses and their relations with older generations Tightly focused on methodological aspects both quantitative and qualitative the volume features the work of authors from numerous countries from differing disciplines and approaches A key addition in a corpus of literature which has until now been restricted to studying the childhood adolescence and youth of the children of immigrants the material includes analysis of longitudinal and transnational efforts to address challenges such as defining the population to be studied and the difficulties of follow up research that spans both time and geographic space In addition to perceptive reviews of extant literature chapters also detail work in surveying the children of immigrants in Europe the USA and elsewhere Authors address key questions such as the complexities of surveying each generation in families where parents have migrated and left children in their country of origin and the epistemological advances in methodology which now challenge assumptions based on the Westphalian nation state paradigm The book is in part an outgrowth of temporal factors immigrants children are now reaching adulthood in more significant numbers but also reflects the added sophistication and sensitivity of social science surveys In linking theoretical and methodological factors it shows just how much the study of these second generations and their families can be enriched by evolving methodologies This book is open access under a CC BY license

The Role of Renewable Energy Technology in Holistic Community Development Alexander Zahnd, 2014-01-25 This thesis documents almost twenty years of the author's work on the development and implementation of a new approach to holistic community development in remote and disadvantaged villages in Nepal It describes the theoretical basis of the work the main research activities and the practical outcomes of the implemented programs One of the fundamental cornerstones of holistic community development is the provision of appropriate and sustainable solutions for the long term development of local communities This requires that people's own identified needs be recognized and addressed in partnership with them in holistic ways The author explains the many synergies that result from this holistic approach to community development Another cornerstone of his approach is to utilise the communities locally available renewable resources for long term sustainable development One of the key findings of the thesis is that improved access to energy services such as cooking with a smokeless metal stove in a clean indoor environment basic indoor lighting and increased food production and safe food storage through a greenhouse and a solar drier respectively need to be at the very heart of any long term holistic community development project The thesis demonstrates that tapping into locally available renewable energy resources and converting them through contextualized and
