

A vibrant, cartoon-style illustration on a light blue background. The central focus is a white rounded rectangle containing the text "AI in Everyday Life". The word "AI" is in large blue letters, with a black square frame around it. "in" is in black, and "Everyday Life" is in black and blue. Surrounding the rectangle are various icons: a boy's face in a blue oval at the top left, a speech bubble, a gear, a small black robot head, a large blue robot head with a white face at the top right, a globe at the bottom right, a Wi-Fi symbol, a girl's face in a blue oval at the bottom right, a paperclip at the bottom left, and a menu icon. A blue button with the text "Get started" is at the bottom center of the white rectangle.

Presently it is often assumed that at least in principle robots and social robots in particular have the potential to increase human well being across a wide range of sectors and application areas At the same time efforts to introduce such systems into our everyday environments have had only limited success and it is yet to be seen whether the impact of social robots on our daily lives professional and private will actually be beneficial Therefore there is a need to systematically address and study the long term use and presence of social robots in everyday environments where humans not only interact with robots but also have them integrated into the totality of their lived experiences in everyday life One of the main ways to investigate human engagement with social robots in everyday environments is through HRI studies conducted in the wild While such an approach has certainly been instrumental to and is increasingly used in HRI research we propose here to further expand the underlying theoretical and methodological frameworks to address the notion of everyday life The latter is viewed here as a useful concept and an umbrella term that allows us to address not only specific application domains for robots but also the continuity and totality of human lived experiences that emerge through long term engagement with social robots in everyday life contexts Placing social robots in everyday settings has often been an explicit goal for robot development however the notion of everyday life has yet to be systematically analysed and addressed in this context Therefore this Research Topic aims to bring together a wide range of disciplinary and interdisciplinary contributions to further develop the HRI domain
