Sidhu, 2021-05-15 This book brings together a set of incisive essays that interrogate Malaysian history and social relations which began during pre colonial times and extended to colonial and post colonial Malaysia It addresses economic misinterpretations of the role of markets in the way colonial industrialisation evolved the nature of exploitation of workers and the participation of local actors in shaping a wide range of socioeconomic and political processes In doing so it takes the lead from the innovative historian Shaharil Talib Robert who argued that the recrafting of history should go beyond the use of conventional methodologies and analytic techniques It is in that tradition that the chapters offer a semblance of causality contingency contradictions and connections With that the analysis in each chapter utilises approaches appropriate for the topics chosen which include history anthropology sociology economics politics and international relations The collection of chapters also offer novel interpretations to contest and fill gaps that have not been addressed in past works The book is essential reading for history students and those interested in Malaysian history in particular United States Engagement in the Asia Pacific: Perspectives from Asia Yoichiro Sato, See Seng Tan, 2015-07-15 This study brings together Asian and Asia based experts of international relations and U S foreign policy to present diverse Asian views about preferred modes of U S engagement in the region and compare their views with U S

interests in the region a prerequisite exercise to truly multilateral regional security governance With the rise of Chinese power in absolute and relative terms over the next decades as a key driving factor of the international relations in the Asia Pacific the United States has announced its Rebalance to Asia previously referred as Pivot to Asia strategy Asian responses perceptions and even interpretations of the U S strategy have been diverse Misconceptions of the U S strategy can be attributed to the built in contradictions among its objectives deliberate ambiguities left by the architects of the strategy mismatch between the stated strategy and actual policy implementations during the last three years and subjective reading by the Asian countries through the lens of their own interests This book will illuminate the diversity of Asian responses and perceptions and analyze the underlying reasons of the diversity The overarching framework of analysis for this book is the very dilemma of alliances abandonment and entrapment which hedging aims at evading Abandonment fear is primarily of the junior partner of an alliance that its senior partner may not come to its aid in crisis Meanwhile entrapment fear works both ways The United States may drag its allies into its conflict against a third party but U S allies may also drag the United States into their regional conflicts in which the United States has no direct or significant stake The Asian choices of their strategic responses to the U S Rebalancing will be described and analyzed through the lens of the perceived balance between the abandonment and entrapment fears as well as other historical and domestic factors unique to each Asian country The reading of the U S strategy by Asian countries is a subjective matter and their interests likely influence their analysis and consequently strategies It is not the aim of this volume to establish well defined cause and effect chain between the U S strategy and Asian strategies but thick descriptions have enabled some chapter authors to identify reciprocal relations between the two While China s growth is the most important driver of the changing strategic landscape in the Asia Pacific and the new U S strategy the new U S strategy inevitably influence the Chinese strategy which in turn triggers a chain reaction of strategic revisions in Asian countries This book is essential reading for scholars in Asian politics U S foreign policy international relations as well as for policy makers Obama's Foreign Policy Michelle Bentley Jack

Holland, 2013-10-08 The proposed work as well as looking at particular policy areas will take a more expansive approach that takes into account alternative issues such as the construction of emotion affect rhetoric as well as theoretical issues such as US decline It also presents these arguments within the context of specific theoretical frameworks which is an approach that is not replicated anywhere else in the literature The concepts of continuity change discussed in other studies are highly general Frequently these studies look at continuity as a trend that goes back across a range of past presidencies typically going back as far as Ronald Reagan In contrast this publication looks specifically at continuity as a relationship between Presidents Bush and Obama especially in the wake of 9 11 This is a much more expansive discussion of the Obama presidency than is currently available within this topic The proposed volume will address the entire term offering scholars and interested readers a detailed discussion of the Obama presidency throughout the duration of his first term in office

The New Geopolitics of Sport in East Asia William Kelly,J.A. Mangan,2015-09-07 The global geopolitics of sport is being transformed in and by East Asia Sport in recent decades has been avidly embraced by East Asian nations with implications both for their image on the international stage and their domestic national identities The three post war East Asian Olympic Games the glittering Guangzhou Asian Games in 2010 and the march of Asia into the global sport market illustrate the fact that a new global sports order has emerged. This collection uniquely discerns the tectonic shift of global power in the geopolitical, economic, cultural, and social dynamics of sport from West to East. It also reveals that the global empire of commerce is similarly shifting eastwards. The chapters written by leading authorities on East Asia widen the focus, advance the knowledge, and sharpen the appreciation of both global sport and regional current transformation in the making, and in doing so, contribute to an understanding of profound changes in global sport. This book was originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of the History of Sport. In China's Backyard Jason Morris-Jung, 2017-12-13. In this fascinating, multi-disciplinary and multi-sited volume, the authors challenge reductionist and oversimplifying approaches to understanding China's engagement with Southeast Asia. Productively viewing these interactions through a resource lens, the editor has transcended disciplinary and area studies divides in order to assemble a dynamic and diverse group of scholars with extensive experience across Southeast Asia and in China, all while bringing together perspectives from resource economics, policy analysis, international relations, human geography, political ecology, history, sociology, and anthropology. The result is an important collection that not only offers empirically detailed studies of Chinese energy and resource investments in Southeast Asia but which attends to the complex and often ambivalent ways in which such investments have become both a source of anxiety and aspiration for different stakeholders in the region. It is essential reading for scholars seeking to understand the diverse contours of Chinese investment in Southeast Asia. Erik Harms, Department of Anthropology, Yale University.
