Harold Bloom

The Old Man And The Sea Blooms Notes:

Ernest Hemingway's The Old Man and the Sea Harold Bloom, 2008 Hemingway's last work published during his lifetime remains one of his most popular and best known. A man's symbolic quest to land the catch of a lifetime engages classic themes of the human struggle against nature as well as explores the intersection of expectation and desire. Ernest Hemingway Harold Bloom, 2009 Presents a brief biography of Ernest Hemingway extracts of major critical essays plot summaries and an index of themes and ideas Omnibus III Douglas Wilson, Douglas Wilson and G. Tyler Fischer, 2006-12

Bloom's how to Write about Ernest Hemingway Kim Becnel, 2009 Offers advice on writing essays about the works of author Ernest Hemingway and lists sample topics from his novels and stories Arthur Miller Harold Bloom, 2009 Presents a brief biography of Arthur Miller along with extracts of major critical essays plot summaries and an index of themes and ideas Charles Dickens Harold Bloom, 2009 Charles Dickens stands as one of the first great popular novelists. Study his classic works including David Copperfield and Great Expectations. Reading Cultures Molly Abel Travis, 1998 Molly Abel Travis unites reader theory with an analysis of historical conditions and various cultural contexts in this discussion of the reading and reception of twentieth century literature in the United States. Travis moves beyond such provisional conclusions as the text produces the reader or the reader produces the text and considers the ways twentieth century readers and texts attempt to constitute and appropriate each other at particular cultural moments and according to specific psychosocial exigencies. She uses the overarching concept of the reader in and out of the text both to differentiate the reader implied by the text from the actual reader and to discuss such in and out movements that occur in the process of reading as the alternation between immersion and interactivity and between role playing and unmasking. Most reader theorists fix on the product of reading and exclude the process. Travis notes which means they necessarily focus on the text. Even theorists who argue for the reader's resistance make the text so determinant that they conceive of text and reader as discrete entities in a closed universe with these entities exerting force and counterforce respectively. Missing in these accounts are wave and field theories concerned with such dynamic and contrastive effects as changes in the art of literary reading over historical periods and differences among readers in the context of a cultural field. Travis seeks to fill gaps in current reader theories by focusing on process and difference. Unlike most reader theorists Travis is concerned with the agency of the reader. Her conception of agency in reading is informed by performance psychoanalytic and feminist theories. This agency involves compulsive reiterative performance in which readers attempt to find themselves by going outside the self engaging in literary role playing in the hope of finally and fully identifying the self through self differentiation. Furthermore readers never escape a social context they are both constructed and actively constructing in that they read as part of interpretive communities and are involved in collaborative creativity or what Kendall Walton calls collective imagining. Home and School Reading and Study Guides Donna M.
