The Subvention in the State Finances of Pennsylvania Frederic Benjamin Garver, 1919 Comprehensive Dissertation Index, 1861-1972: Business and economics Xerox University Microfilms, 1973 The Subvention in the State Finances of Pennsylvania Frederic B. Garver, 2017-10-11 Excerpt from The Subvention in the State Finances of Pennsylvania A Dissertation Submitted to the Faculty of the Graduate School of Arts and Literature in Candidacy for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy Department of Political Economy It is a fundamental principle of the distribution of powers within the several states of the federal union that local governments such as the city county township and school district have no sphere of action that they may Claim as their own and upon which the state may not encroach Local governments are the creatures of the state l Their dependence upon constitutional provisions or upon enactments of the state legislature for their very existence gives rise to wide variations In the amount of power and in the number of functions that they exercise It also makes readjustments in the division of powers between state and locality both easy and rapid If the legislature decides for example that the counties are caring inadequately for the insane it may remove the service to the realm of state administration one year and return it to the counties or school districts the next Or if a new service is created such as the provision of free industrial education it is possible for the legislature either to require one of the subordinate governmental units to assume it or to provide for direct state administration In short the local governments are completely at the mercy of the state legislature with respect to the functions they may exercise The legislature may however be restrained by the constitution of the state from interfering too extensively in local affairs and it is not unusual to find in state constitutions grants of power directly to the local units Moreover a less tangible but equally significant restraint is exercised by political custom and by the ingrained opinions of the people as to what are local and what state affairs Public opinion would not in the United States permit complete centralization nor on the other hand complete decentralization About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Capitalism Takes Command Michael Zakim, Gary J. Kornblith, 2011-12-21 Most scholarship on nineteenth century America s transformation into a market society has focused on consumption romanticized visions of workers and analysis of firms and factories Building on but moving past these studies Capitalism Takes Command presents a history of family farming general incorporation laws mortgage payments inheritance practices office systems and risk management an inventory of the means by which capitalism became America s new revolutionary tradition This multidisciplinary collection of essays argues not only that capitalism reached far beyond the purview of the economy but also that the revolution was not confined to the destruction of an agrarian past As business ceaselessly revised its own practices a new demographic of private bankers insurance brokers investors in securities and start up manufacturers among many others assumed center stage displacing older elites and forms of property Explaining how capital became an ism and how business became a political philosophy Capitalism Takes Command brings the economy back into American social and cultural history The Road Policy of Pennsylvania... Wilbur Clayton Plummer,1925 State-local Fiscal Relations in Illinois Simeon Elbridge Leland,1941 Financial Aspects of the Development of Urban Passenger Transportation Arthur L.
