Palm, 2005-01-11 KI 2004 was the 27th edition of the annual German Conference on Artificial Intelligence which traditionally brings together academic and industrial researchers from all areas of AI and which enjoys increasing international attendance. KI 2004 received 103 submissions from 26 countries. This volume contains the 30 papers that were finally selected for presentation at the conference. The papers cover quite a broad spectrum of classical subareas of AI like natural language processing, neural networks, knowledge representation, reasoning, planning, and search. When looking at this year's contributions, it was exciting to observe that there was a strong trend towards actual real world applications of AI technology. A majority of contributions resulted from or were motivated by applications in a variety of areas. Examples include applications of planning where the technology is being exploited for taxiway traffic control and game playing, natural language processing, and knowledge representation are enabling advanced Web-based information processing, and the integration of results from automated reasoning, neural networks, and machine perception into robotics leads to significantly improved capabilities of autonomous systems. The technical programme of KI 2004 was highlighted by invited talks from outstanding researchers in the areas of automated reasoning, robot planning, constraint reasoning, machine learning, and semantic Web. Jörg Siekmann (DFKI and University of Saarland, Saarbrücken), Malik Ghallab (LAAS-CNRS, Toulouse), Franco Fages (INRIA Rocquencourt), Martin Riedmiller (University of Bayreuth), and Wolfgang Wahlster (DFKI and University of Saarland, Saarbrücken). Their invited papers are also presented in this volume.

Artificial Intelligence, Ethics, and the Digital Society: Pathways to Sustainable Development Anju Beniwal, 2025-06-25 In recent years, the rapid advancement of technology, particularly Artificial Intelligence (AI) and digital innovations, has fundamentally transformed every dimension of human society. These developments have not only reshaped our economies and lifestyles but have also raised critical ethical, environmental, and sociological questions. This edited volume brings together a diverse range of scholarly contributions that explore the intersections between technological progress, sustainable development, and social well-being. The chapters included in this volume reflect contributions from scholars and researchers across India, encompassing disciplines such as Sociology, History, Economics, Political Science, and Liberal Education. The themes range from the role of AI in everyday life and the impact of smart cities on environmental management to localized frameworks of sustainability, the digital transformation of food systems, and the media's influence on social awareness campaigns. Special emphasis is placed on how Artificial Intelligence and digital technologies can both aid and challenge the achievement of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Simultaneously, the ethical frameworks surrounding these innovations are explored to ensure technology serves humanity without compromising core societal values. This book also examines grassroots realities and region-specific concerns, such as sustainable practices in Assam, the digitalization of India's organic food sector, and menstrual taboos across cultures, providing an inclusive and grounded understanding of the diverse sociocultural contexts in which sustainability must be achieved. I hope that this volume serves not only as a valuable academic resource but also as a catalyst for interdisciplinary dialogue and policy innovation It is my belief that such collaborative and ethical inquiry is essential to building a more just equitable and sustainable society in the face of the 21st century's challenges I am grateful to all the contributors who have enriched this volume with their research and insights Their dedication to critical inquiry and commitment to social change is what makes this collection both timely and transformative
