OCRWM Bulletin ,1992-03 A Guide to the U.S. Department of Energy's Low-level Radioactive Waste ,2002

Citizen Participation in Nuclear Waste Repository Siting Robert E. Howell,1982 Radioactive Waste

Management ,1981 Nuclear Waste Disposal Warren S. Melfort,2003 The disposal of nuclear waste is becoming a major concern Many nuclear power plants around the world are nearing the end of their operating lives This is particularly true in the United States where most nuclear power plants are approaching the end of the operational time period allowed in their licenses The disposal of radioactive waste from nuclear power plants and nuclear missiles is as politically intense an issue as the plants and missiles themselves Yet the three issues have remained curiously separate in spite of their close physical ties Few debates on nuclear power or nuclear weapons discuss the problems of waste disposal should the power plant or missile be decommissioned Few debates on nuclear waste disposal discuss the opportunities to close nuclear power plants or get rid of nuclear weapons a disposal site would afford Nuclear waste can be generally classified as either low level radioactive waste or high level radioactive waste Low level nuclear waste usually includes material used to handle the highly radioactive parts of nuclear reactors i e cooling water pipes and radiation suits and waste from medical procedures involving radioactive treatments or x rays Low level waste is comparatively easy to dispose of The level of radioactivity and the half life of the radioactive isotopes in low level waste is relatively small Storing the waste for a period of 10 to 50 years will allow most of the radioactive isotopes in low level waste to decay at which point the waste can be disposed of as normal refuse High level radioactive waste is generally material from the core of the nuclear reactor or nuclear weapon This waste includes uranium plutonium and other highly radioactive elements made during fission Most of the radioactive isotopes in high level waste emit large amounts of radiation and have extremely long half lives some longer than 100 000 years creating long time periods before the waste will settle to safe levels of radioactivity This new book explores the issues pertaining either directly or indirectly to nuclear waste disposal Federal Register ,1991-12-06 Cartographies of Danger Mark

Monmonier,2008-04-15 No place is perfectly safe but some places are more dangerous than others Whether we live on a floodplain or in Tornado Alley near a nuclear facility or in a neighborhood poorly lit at night we all co exist uneasily with natural and man made hazards As Mark Monmonier shows in this entertaining and immensely informative book maps can tell us a lot about where we can anticipate certain hazards but they can also be dangerously misleading California for example takes earthquakes seriously with a comprehensive program of seismic mapping whereas Washington has been comparatively lax about earthquakes in Puget Sound But as the Northridge earthquake in January 1994 demonstrated all too clearly to Californians even reliable seismic hazard maps can deceive anyone who misinterprets known fault lines as the only places vulnerable to earthquakes Important as it is to predict and prepare for catastrophic natural hazards more subtle and persistent phenomena such as pollution and crime also pose serious dangers that we have to cope with on a daily basis

Hazard zone maps highlight these more insidious hazards and raise awareness about them among planners local officials and the public With the help of many maps illustrating examples from all corners of the United States Monmonier demonstrates how hazard mapping reflects not just scientific understanding of hazards but also perceptions of risk and how risk can be reduced Whether you live on a faultline or a coastline near a toxic waste dump or an EMF generating power line you ignore this book s plain language advice on geographic hazards and how to avoid them at your own peril DOE Nuclear Public Information Program United States. Congress. House. Committee on Energy and Commerce. Subcommittee on Energy Conservation and Power,1982 Monthly Catalogue, United States Public Documents ,1994 Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications ,1994
