Marketplace of the Marvelous Erika Janik, 2015-03-10

An entertaining introduction to the quacks snake oil salesmen and charlatans who often had a point. Despite rampant scientific innovation in nineteenth century America traditional medicine still adhered to ancient healing methods subjecting patients to bleeding blistering and induced vomiting and sweating. Facing such horrors many patients ran with open arms to burgeoning practices that promised new ways to cure their ills. Hydropaths offered cures using healing waters and tight wet sheet wraps. Phineas Parkhurst Quimby experimented with magnets and tried to replace bad diseased thoughts with good healthy thoughts while Daniel David Palmer reportedly restored a man's hearing by knocking on his vertebrae. Lorenzo and Lydia Fowler used their fingers to read their clients heads claiming that the topography of one's skull could reveal the intricacies of one's character. Lydia Pinkham packaged her Vegetable Compound and made a famous family business from the homemade cure. All And Samuel Thomson rejecting traditional medicine introduced a range of herbal remedies for a vast array of woes supplemented by the curative powers of poetry. Bizarre as these methods may seem many are the precursors of today's notions of healthy living. We have the nineteenth century practice of medical gymnastics to thank for today's emphasis on regular exercise and hydropathy's various water cures for the notion of regular bathing and the mantra to drink eight glasses of water a day. And much of the philosophy of health introduced by these alternative methods is reflected in today's patient centered care and holistic medicine which takes account of the body and spirit. Moreover these entrepreneurial alternative healers paved the way for women in medicine. Shunned by the traditionalists and eager for converts many of the masters of these new fields embraced the training of women in their methods. Some women like Pinkham were able to break through the barriers to women working to become medical entrepreneurs themselves. In fact next to teaching medicine attracted more women than any other profession in the nineteenth century the majority of them in irregular health systems. These eccentric ideas didn't make it into modern medicine without a fight of course. As these new healing methods grew in popularity traditional doctors often viciously attacked them with cries of quackery and pressed legal authorities to arrest fine and jail irregulars for endangering public safety. Nonetheless these alternative movements attracted widespread support from everyday Americans and the famous alike including Mark Twain Louisa May Alcott and General Ulysses S Grant with their messages of hope self help and personal empowerment. Though many of these medical fads faded and most of their claims of magical cures were discredited by advances in medical science a surprising number of the theories and ideas behind the quackery are staples in today's health industry. Janik tells the colorful stories of these quacks whose oftentimes genuine wish to heal helped shape and influence modern medicine.

A Madman's Will Gregory May, 2023-04-11

The untold saga of John Randolph's 383 slaves freed in his much contested will of 1821 finally comes to light. Few legal cases in American history are as riveting as the controversy surrounding the will of Virginia Senator John Randolph 1773-1833 which almost inexplicably freed all 383 of his slaves in one of the largest and most publicized manumissions in American history. So famous is the case that Ta Nehisi Coates has used it to condemn Randolph's cousin Thomas Jefferson for failing to free his own slaves. With this groundbreaking investigation, historian Gregory May now reveals a more surprising story showing how madness and scandal shaped John Randolph's wildly shifting attitudes toward his slaves and how endemic prejudice in the North ultimately deprived the freedmen of the land Randolph had promised them. Sweeping from the legal spectacle of the contested will through the freedmen's dramatic flight and horrific reception in Ohio, A Madman's Will is an extraordinary saga about the alluring promise of freedom and its tragic limitations.

The Marketplace of Revolution T. H. Breen, 2004 In a richly interdisciplinary narrative, a historian offers a boldly innovative interpretation of the mobilization of ordinary Americans on the eve of independence. 19 halftones, 21 line illustrations.

The Booklovers' Marketplace, 1959 Negotiating the Sacred II Elizabeth Burns Coleman, Maria Suzette Fernandes-Dias, 2008-12-01 Blasphemy and other forms of blatant disrespect to religious beliefs have the capacity to create significant civil and even international unrest. Consequently, the sacrosanctity of religious dogmas and beliefs, stringent laws of repression and codes of moral and ethical propriety have compelled artists to live and create with occupational hazards like uncertain audience response, self-censorship, and accusations of deliberate misinterpretation of cultural production looming over their heads. Yet in recent years, issues surrounding the rights of minority cultures to recognition and respect have raised new questions about the contemporariness of the construct of blasphemy and sacrilege. Controversies over the aesthetic representation of the sacred, the exhibition of the sacred as art, and the public display of sacrilegious or blasphemous works have given rise to heated debates and have invited us to reflect on binaries like artistic and religious sensibilities, tolerance and philistinism, the sacred and the profane, deification and vilification. Endeavouring to move beyond simplistic points about the rights to freedom of expression and sacrosanctity, this collection explores how differences between conceptions of the sacred can be negotiated. It recognises that blasphemy may be justified as a form of political criticism as well as a sincere expression of spirituality. But it also recognises that within a pluralistic society, blasphemy in the arts can do an enormous amount of harm as it may also impair relations within and between societies This collection evolved out a two day conference called Negotiating the Sacred Blasphemy and Sacrilege in the Arts held at the Centre for Cross Cultural Research at The Australian National University in November 2005 This is the second volume in a series of five conferences and edited collections on the theme Negotiating the Sacred The first conference Negotiating the Sacred Blasphemy and Sacrilege in a Multicultural Society was held at The Australian National University s Centre for Cross Cultural Research in 2004 and published as an edited collection by ANU E Press in 2006 Other conferences in the series have included Religion Medicine and the Body ANU 2006 Tolerance Education and the Curriculum ANU 2007 and Governing the Family Monash University 2008 Together the series represents a major contribution to ongoing debates on the political demands arising from religious pluralism in multicultural societies Virginia Woolf and the Literary Marketplace J. Dubino, 2010-11-22 These unique essays focus primarily on Woolf s non fiction and considers her in the context of the modernist marketplace With research based on new archival material this volume makes important new contributions to the study of the gift economy
