

the metrics that matter

the analytics

to follow, you can go to the Analytics tab to see a breakdown of your metrics from the last week, last 28 days, and so on.

Analytics will tell you the total number of video views, likes, comments, and shares your account received. It will show your top videos, and follower activity.

Follower activity will help you determine the best days and times to post. You don't always have to stick to a schedule, but they are helpful to know when you're likely to get the most views soon after posting! Be sure to check your analytics often so to note any changes as your channel grows.

follower activity

Over time

performing videos

top videos

Analytics will show you the details for that specific video, including its total views, its completion rate (how many people watched your video) to know how you compare to other creators, how many new followers you gained from the video, and where your views came from (the For You page, for example.)

When it comes to video analytics, look at your best-performing videos and your worst-performing videos. What's the difference? Do your viewers tend to watch videos all the way through, but not the first 30 seconds? Or maybe your viewers do prefer short videos because it's so valuable and you've seen that trend.

Check your analytics weekly and monthly on your best and worst-performing videos and pay attention to completion rate, shares, and so on.
